FARM EMPLOYE KILLED HERE IN RUN-AWAY

LOSES CONTROL OF HORSES AT BURLINGTON CROSSING

Thrown to Pavement When Team is in Flight; Dr. Lueck Reports Accident

NICK STONIO, 35, Bulgarian, employed by John Shifter on a farm north of the city, was killed in a run-away accident near the Burlington railroad crossing east of Grand Crossing, according to police reports on Tuesday. Stonio is believed to be without relatives in this country.

Dr. Lueck, who telephoned the report of the accident to the Central station, stated that Stonio was instantly killed when he fell to the pavement.

Police reported that Stonio was returning from a trip to the city about 6:30 in the evening when the team became frightened near the crossing. Henry Burmaster, Lloyd Smith and George Deirkop, eye-witnesses of the accident, stated that Stonio lost control of the horses and was thrown from the wagon to the pavement when the horses were in flight. Coroner Tetley took charge of the body.

It was learned that Stonio had been in the employ of Shifter during the past winter. Whether he has relatives in this country was not known.

FIRE BURNS HOLE IN ROOF AT PEARL BUTTON COMPANY

Fire caused from the smoke stack burned through the roof of the boiler room of the Wisconsin Pearl company shortly after 8 o'clock Monday night, according to a report at Central fire station Tuesday. Little damage was reported by the department. Another fire occurred Monday at the William Sila residence, 113 North Sixth street. The flames caught in cloth lying under an open stopper in the chimney on the second floor of the building, it was said. The walls were slightly scorched.

PARKING WITHOUT LIGHTS; FOUR PAY FINES IN COURT

On a charge of parking without lights, four auto drivers, C. T. Shisler, Frank Leonard, Bud Jehlen and Homer Hart, paid fines of $2.50 in police court here. Leonard was arraigned Monday afternoon.

FARMER OF PROSPER SHOOTS HIMSELF THROUGH THE HEAD EASTER SUNDAY MORNING

DAVID DONALD, aged 70, a prominent farmer of Prosper, in Fillmore country, is reported to have committed suicide by shooting himself through the head Easter Sunday morning. Ill health is said to have been the cause for his act.

Mr. Donald has been living with his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Herbert White. Mrs. White was preparing to drive to town to see the doctor about him, it was said, and Mr. Donald left her to go into the house. A few minutes later the report of a gun was heard. Investigation disclosed Mr. Donald on the floor with a bullet in his head.

Mr. Donald was a widower. Two children survive him.

WIND AND WAVE TAKE HEAVY TOLL OF LIFE AND PROPERTY IN STATES OF MIDDLE WEST

CHICAGO, Ill.—Revised figures on the casualties and damage caused by the storms which swept over the central states Monday indicated at noon Tuesday that the loss of life would not be as great as had been expected. The latest figures shows twenty-eight known dead —eleven in Illinois, fifteen in Indiana and two in Missouri—three to four hundred injured and property damage running into millions of dollars.

Previous reports, which placed the dead at close to fifty, were found to have been caused by the crippled communication facilities which brought duplicate reports from various sections which it was impossible to reach directly.

CHICAGO, Ill.—Sweeping northeastward through the middle western states a storm which had its origin in the Rocky mountain region, Sunday, had passed over Ohio Tuesday, leaving in its wake death and much destruction. A loss of nearly fifty lives was attributed to the storm, which developed considerable energy as it progressed eastward, taking in many places the form of tornadoes. Damage to property will mount into millions.

Accompanied by rains which sent streams, already swollen, coursing far beyond their usual channels, the storm brought added suffering and inconvenience to some communities which for several days have been affected by flood conditions. A drop in the temperature to below the seasonal normal added to the discomfort of families whose homes have been destroyed by wind or made uninhabitable by flood, and who are now living in tents or improvised shelter.

21 Dead in Indiana

Indiana apparently felt the full effect of the wind storms Monday. In that state twenty-one persons are known to have met death in different communities. Early yesterday morning the storm centered in Illinois. Striking a number of villages in the darkness tornadoes wrought havoc to many homes and such reports as were available from agricultural communities which had been stripped of nearly all means of communication indicated that twenty-two persons had been killed.

As the storm passed over Indiana there were two distinct tornado belts. The one in the southern part sustained some damage but across the northern part of the state there was a wind-swept strip in which the loss of life was heavy. Warren county in the western part of the state reported a loss of twelve lives. Four met death in Madison county in the central portion of the state.

The death toll was the greatest in central Illinois. The villages of Irvington and Plainfield, not far from Centralia, were badly wrecked and several persons were killed. Other fatalities in this state were in small rural communities.

Flood Waters Rising

Rivers in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and Missouri which have been close to flood stage, and in some instances have broken through levees causing much damage within the last few days, rose still higher Tuesday following the rains that accompanied the storm that struck the middle west Monday.

Floods as menacing as those of 1913 were reported from some points, hundreds of families have been driven from their homes, there has been some loss of life, transportation has been affected and much damage caused to crops.

The Illinois river, which has been overflowing its banks for several days, had spread out across adjacent lands this morning and some families in nearly every town along the river had been forced to seek higher lands.

Higher at Dubuque

DUBUQUE, Ia.—With a stage of 19.8 registered here, indications are that the crest of the Mississippi river flood will reach Dubuque late this week, probably Friday night. Flood water have reached the east mainline of the Illinois Central railroad.

Boats Bring Food Supplies

BEARDSTOWN, Ill.— Weakening of the flood covered tracks of the Burlington railroad Tuesday morning resulted in the annulment of freight traffic into Beardstown. The city is now dependent on boats for supplies. Provisions are being transported across the river from Fredericks which still maintains railroad connection with Peoria. With the river at 24.75 feet above low water mark and promising 25.1 before the crest is reached, passenger traffic is also uncertain.

The cold wave Monday night spread suffering throughout the tent colony and gave the Salvation Army

LA CROSSE ROAD SIGNS PLANNED TO GUIDE VISITORS

Merchants Bureau Decides to Order Fifty Signs for Main Highways

Nearly one hundred merchants gathered at Union Hall Monday evening for the regular monthly dinner meeting of the Merchant's Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce. The meeting was held on the north side as a special mark of courtesy to the merchants of that section of the city and they responded by turning out a splendid representation.

Automobilists will have no trouble finding their way into La Crosse from now on. The bureau passed a motion ordering fifty road signs to be placed on all highways leading into La Crosse, and these signs will be placed at strategic points within a radius of thirty to forty miles.

In connection with the "Made in La Crosse Week" soon to be inaugurated by the manufacturers and jobbers, the Oyen Ad Sign System has donated the use of a number of their large poster boards containing messages to both merchants and consumers urging them to use La Crosse made goods, thus giving work to La Crosse people, and keeping La Crosse factories busy.

The question of adjusting shopping hours in connection with a daylight saving schedule for the summer months was voted down, and a motion was passed which leaves the hours the same as at present.

A committee was appointed to make inquiry as to the possibility of securing a special rate one day each week on the La Crosse and Southeastern Railway, to encourage more trade from the territory served by that railroad.

The meeting was considered by all who attended to be one of the most interesting ever held by the bureau, and a success from every point of view.

EXHUME BONES OF EDWARD SAILSTAD FOR EXAMINATION

SUPERIOR, Wis.—Announcement was made here Tuesday by attorneys for Mrs. Sailstad-Richardson, that the supposed bones of Edward Sailstad will be exhumed from their resting place in an Eau Claire, Wisconsin cemetery Wednesday and forwarded to the University of Wisconsin Medical school for examination.

The disinterment is to be made at the request of Sailstad's wife, since wedded again, who seeks to collect $60,000 of life insurance alleging that he lost his life in a fire which destroyed the summer cottage he occupied at Lake Nebagamon, near here, on the night of August 20, 1920.

SENATE TO ACT ON MEASURE AT THIS SESSION

Badger Senator's Motion to Pass Bonus Before Adjournment Approved at G. O. P. Conference

ADMINISTRATION TARIFF BILL TO BE BROUGHT UP THURSDAY

Will Begin Consideration of Measure Without Further Delay

WASHINGTON.—Decision to pass a soldiers' bonus bill at this session of congress was reached Tuesday by senate republicans in party conference. The vote was 36 to 2 on a motion offered by Senator Lenroot, republican, Wisconsin.

The conference resolution as made public follows:

"It is the sense of this conference that the senate should at this session pass a soldiers' bonus bill and that the republican members of the finance committee be requested to report such a bill within a reasonable time."

The conference also decreed that the senate should proceed to the consideration of the administration tariff bill on Thursday without further delay. The measure will be called up at that time and it was announced the majority membership would make every effort to hold a quorum continuously.

There was some discussion as to the form the bonus bill should take but with divergent views developing, no effort was made to reach a decision. This will be left to finance committee republicans, a majority, of whom is reported to favor the House bill with possible elimination of amendment of the land settlement option.

Chairman McCumber of the finance committee is due to return here late Wednesday or early Thursday and will take charge of the tariff bill on the floor. He is anxious to get the bonus bill before the senate and is expected to call the committee majority together to discuss the measure soon after his arrival.

Decision of the conference to press the tariff bill without delay is in line with the expressed desire of President Harding that this measure be put ahead of the bonus. With a long fight over the tariff in prospect however, that bill, under announced plans of Senator McCumber, would be laid aside temporarily for senate consideration of the bonus.

RIVER IS FALLING CREST OF FLOOD IS PASSED HERE

Stream Will Continue to Drop Rapidly During the Next Few Days

The river has fallen two-tenths of a foot in 24 hours, according to the government gauge at the wagon bridge, registering 15.3 Tuesday morning.

With the flood waters receding, summer cottagers and others whose places are flooded are preparing to clean flors and repair other damage done by the water.

The river is falling at all points north of La Crosse and the drop here will be quite rapid during the next few days.

The La Crosse and Onalaska Street Railway company today put into service a bus drawn by a team of mules, to carry passengers between North La Crosse and Onalaska. It is not expected the flood will recede sufficiently to use the street railway before the end of the week.

AVIATORS TAKE OFF FOR THIRD LEG OF TRANS-OCEAN TRIP

PORTO PRAYA, Cape Verde Islands, April 18.—By The Associated Press.—The Portuguese trans-Atlantic aviators, Capudas Coutinho and Sacadura, hopped off at 5:30 o'clock Tuesday morning for St. Paul Rocks on the third and probably most dangerous leg of their flight from Lisbon to Rio Janeiro.

Their route lay over 900 miles of water, devoid of markers or guideships, and they expected to reach the rocks, in mid-Atlantic, in from ten to twelve hours flying.

SEAWAY OF GREATER BENEFIT TO CANADA THAN U. S.--CALDER

WILL MEAN HIGHER WHEAT PRICES SOLON DECLARES

Hits Claim it Will Prove More Efficient Transportation

WASHINGTON. — The St. Lawrence-Great Lakes waterway and power project was criticised Tuesday by Senator Calder of New York, a republican, member of the senate commerce committee, as of more benefit to Canada than the U. S. and designed to increase wheat prices rather than to provide more efficient transportation.

Among other arguments against the project cited by Senator Calder in his address before the senate were that it would be under American control exclusively that it would bring cheap European manufactures in closer competition with American wares and that it would cost ten times the Suez canal and entail the expenditure in one place of the federal waterway development fund which could be distributed more widely to greater national advantage.

"The St. Lawrence waterways project has been presented as an answer—final, complete conclusive — to a transportation problem," said Senator Calder. "To that extent it is a masquerader. It is at best in view of existing conditions, an attempt to answer a price problem. The St. Lawrence project casts its shadow across the nation because farmers worked long hours under the sun raising wheat for a price they considered far too low.

Denies Project is Necessary

Citing reports giving statistics of empty freight cars, Senator Calder denied that a transportation shortage exists which makes the St. Lawrence project necessary, adding:

"No, it is not a transportation burr under the saddle which is causing the middle west to gallop so madly. Price is the impelling motive. More cents per bushel and more bushels is the slogan of the wheat belt. We cannot log-roll ourselves to a state of maximum efficiency.

"Divorce the project from its aggressive agrarian support and it collapses. I concede that perhaps this canal, if built, may carry wheat, but whose wheat? The answer is unescapable—Canada's."

Can't Compete With Canada

Senator Calder said Canada herself would build the canal if the project was regarded as feasible. He asked how American wheat growers on land averaging $92 per acre in value could compete with Canadian land worth fifty cents to $43 an acre.

Citing the tonnage arguments of the canal proponents, Senator Calder asked what would be delivered "to the door of the middle west."

"Cargoes of crockery, perhaps," he said, "at cut rate prices to solace and sustain the crockery interests of Ohio. Steel plates and bars delivered at the nearest lake port—a contribution to Pittsburgh. Shiploads of furniture to Grand Rapids. And for the farmer, what? If the canal works as well as its enthusiasts say it will, it will deliver for the use of the western farmer shiploads of wheat and shiploads of beef from the Argentine. Yes, and mutton from Australia."

WILL ENGAGE IN NO FIGHTING THIS TRIP DECLARES DEMPSEY

CHERBOURG, France.—By The Associated Press.—Jack Dempsey, pugilist, does not plan to engage in any bouts on his present trip to Europe, but will return if suitable opponents can be found.

"I haven't come to fight, but for a holiday," he told the correspondent when asked to the truth of a report that he was to meet Carpentier again while here.

"If I find opponents worth while I shall accept, but for the next voyage," he added.

MOTHER KILLS CHILDREN AND TRIES SUICIDE

COLUMBIA, Ky. — Mrs. Arnold Holt in a sudden fit of dementia at her home in Russell Springs, a village near here, Tuesday slew two of her children, attempted to kill a third, and then, fastening a hatchet in a fence with the blade toward her, backed off twenty feet and ran into it head-on. Physicians say she will die.

GERMAN DELEGATES BARRED FROM REPRESENTATION ON RUSSIAN AFFAIRS BOARD

Made Their Own Arrangements With Russia and Therefore Cannot Participate in Discussion, is Decision; Treaty in Violation of Versailles Pact Says France

GENOA.—(By the Associated Press.)—The allies have decided that Germany, having effected her own arrangement with Russia in the treaty signed Sunday at Rapallo, is debarred from further participation in the discussion of the conditions of agreement between Russia and the various other countries represented at the economic conference.

PARIS.—(By the Associated Press.)—A high official of the government declared this afternoon there was no possibility of continuing the discussion at Genoa unless the Russo-German treaty were cancelled. Even if it were annulled he declared, the moral effect would remain of two of the parties to the Genoa conference maneuvering on the side to forestall the conference's work.

PARIS.—(By the Associated Press.)—A Havas dispatch from Genoa on Tuesday afternoon says the allies are drafting a note to the Germans and Russians, notifying them it will be impossible for the Germans and Russians to continue to participate in the sessions of the Russian affairs commission of the conference if they persist in maintaining the Russo-German treaty.

GENOA.—(By the Associated Press.)—The consternation caused by the German-Russian coup including the treaty at Rapallo supplanting the Brest-Litovsk pact showed no signs of abating as the economic conference delegates continued their deliberations Tuesday.

On the contrary, as the different national groups examined the text of the new agreement and deliberated on its possible effect upon the future balance of power in Europe, they were impressed with the deep importance the signing of this separate pact was likely to have on the general political situation.

The prophets who, when the economic conference was inaugurated, predicted that it would result either in great good or disaster to Europe, were inclined to take the view that the congress seemed to be headed in the direction of the disaster which only coolness of Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain and other conference leaders could prevent. Some men in allied circles read into the Russo-German treaty, and especially the manner in which it was signed, a future alliance between these two countries.

Wil Divide Europe

Prime Minister Lloyd George himself went so far as to say the pact was a step in the direction of dividing Europe into separate camps, the very thing the conference wished to avoid.

Apparently the Germans were deeply disappointed at not being able to take part in the private conference of allied leaders with the bolsheviki in an endeavor to lay down the general lines of an agreement before bringing the discussions into the conference commissions, thus reducing the chances of a break.

"Probably the Germans thought the allies were trying to make a secret separate agreement with the soviets," said a British delegate to the Associated Press, "but nothing was further from our thoughts. We were merely trying to expedite the work of the conference, especially seeking by all possible honorable means to make the Genoa conference a success. England, like every sane nation of the world today, knows something helpful must emerge from Genoa."

Japan to Sit in

As these preliminary conversations with the soviets particularly concerned Europe, the Japanese leaders were not present, but they were kept informed concerning developments. They participated in Monday's reunion of the allied leaders and now that the situation has assumed a broad international aspect by virtue of separate action on the part of Germany Japan as well as the members of the little entente, will sit with the allies and given their counsel.

Comes as Bombshell

GENOA.—(By the Associated Press.)—The organizers of the Genoa conference Tuesday were attempting to grope their way out of the debris and confusion caused by the explosion of the German-Russian bombshell, the secret signing of a formal peace treaty between the two nations at Rapallo on Sunday.

The judicial experts of the powers which organized the conference met to consider whether the new pact violates the stipulations of the treaty of Versailles or conflicts with the resolutions of the supreme council at Cannes on which the present conference is founded, and which all the nations coming to Genoa were expected to accept as the basis of the meeting.

Experts Study New Treaty

The experts later were to report to an assembly which includes not only the chief representatives of the five inviting powers, Great Britain, France, Italy, Japanese and Belgium, but also the leading delegates of the little entente nations, who were especially invited because of the vital character of the question to be dealt with and its possible effects on central Europe.

Without exception the delegations of the thirty-four countries represented here are wondering what the real effect of the surprise treaty will be on the conference. The pact, constitutes recognition by Germany of the Russian government, a question form-

CHICAGO PACKERS DENY REPORTS OF PROPOSED MERGER

Newspaper Declared Negotiations for Half-billion Amalgamation Were Under Way

ARMOUR, CUDAHY AND WILSON PLANTS REPORTED INVOLVED

Thomas Wilson to Head New Organization, Story Goes

CHICAGO, Ill.—Flat denial that an amalgamation of Armour, Cudahy and Wilson packing companies is contemplated, was made today by J. Ogden Armour and Edward Cudahy, presidents of their respective organizations. Thomas E. Wilson, head of Wilson & Company, was not in the city.

Informal negotiations for a merger of three of the "Big Five" packing companies into a $500,000,000 corporation were reported to have been conducted by J. Ogden Armour, head of Armour & Company, according to the Herald and Examiner Tuesday. The corporation would have as its president Thomas E. Wilson, president of Wilson & Company, and Mr. Armour would be chairman of the board of directors, according to the newspaper.

The firms involved are: Armour & Company, with a total valuation of $520,718,997; Wilson & Company, with a net worth of $88,097,250, and Cudahy & Company, with a valuation of $45,502,250.

Consent of the interstate commerce commission would be necessary for the success of the proposed merger, it is said.

Persons who are credited with being familiar with the merger, say no new financing is contemplated, the proposition being that Armour & Company exchange its securities for those of the other two companies.

Mr. Armour is supposed to be actuated by the motive of desiring a successor to the presidency of Armour & Company, a position handed down to him by his father. Having no son to carry on the business he is forced to go outside the family. Mr. Wilson's success in the packing industry has made him the logical candidate and the newspaper points out that to secure Mr. Wilson, Mr. Armour is forced to buy Mr. Wilson's company.

IDENTIFY BODY FOUND IN ROCK RIVER

ROCKFORD, Ill.—Identification of a body taken from Rock river as that of Dr. Rudolph B. Smith, missing since March 24, was made Tuesday. Dr. Smith's initial was on one of the socks and Mrs. Smith identified part of the clothing and articles found in the pockets.

Dr. Smith's family said he had experienced a nervous breakdown. He disappeared from Rockford hospital where he had been a patient.

WILSON DENIES HE WROTE LETTER IN PRAISE OF REED

Former President Declares He Has No Recollection of Such Correspondence

REED SUPPORTER CLAIMS HE SAW LETTER FROM WILSON

Former Executive Praised Reed for Stand on Reserve Act

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Lee Meriwether, attorney and supporter of Senator James A. Reed, Tuesday repeated his statement that he had seen a copy of a letter by former President Wilson praising Reed's attitude on the federal reserve bill which the former executive Monday night denied existed, after he read Meriwether's statement in the Globe-Democrat recently.

Meriwether said he also had seen a letter from William G. McAdoo, son in-law of ex-President Wilson, written when McAdoo was secretary of the treasury, commending Reed's work on the bill.

Meriwether's statement follows:

Claims He Saw Letter

"When the League of Nations fight was on in 1919 and while there was much criticism of Senator Reed in public print because of his opposition to league part, I asked Reed what he had to say in reply to the charge that he was always knocking the president.

"The senator mentioned several important measures in which he had cooperated with the president, one of the measures being the federal reserve act.

"He called his secretary and told him 'to show Meriwether those letters.'

"In substantiation of Senator Reed's claim that he had received the approbation of the president for his work on the federal reserve bill, the secretary produced from the senator's files, first a letter from Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo in which McAdoo very warmly commended and thanked Senator Reed for his work he had done in perfecting the federal reserve bill.

Another letter was then produced of the same general purport written on white house stationery and signed by Woodrow Wilson.

"I made the same statement in a speech before 10,000 people at the Coliseum during the league of nations fight and it was never challenged from any source."

Denied by Wilson

Senator Reed's statement and the letter containing the denial of Meriwether's remarks were featured by the Globe-Democrat Tuesday under a banner head reading: "Woodrow Wilson Curtly Repudiates Senator Reed As Latter Exhibits Ex-President's Letter of Praise."

A sub-head read: "Drops Bomb in Contest for Senator."

In his letter, the former president denied he had ever written such a letter.

"I have no recollection of ever having written any such letter," his letter says.

"I did have a difference with the president, entirely goodnatured, over the federal reserve bill." Senator Reed's statement, given out Monday night, said.

Senator Reed explained that he had insisted that hearings should be given on the federal reserve bill while Wilson, then president, wished the bill passed without the hearings. "As a result of the hearings the bill was amended hundreds of times," the senator's statement said.

It was after the hearings, according to Senator Reed's statement that he received the letter of praise from the former president.

WHO'S THIS "FOOLISH WIFE?"

Answer .....

Name of Contestant .....

Address ..... City .....

This is a hard one today, so the "Foolish Wives" editor is going to help you out a bit. First of all, notice the box the lady is opening and since she is not a real magician and has no jewels to put in the box, why do you suppose she opened it? Oh, well, go ahead and guess—it's a cinch.

RULES OF "FOOLISH WIVES" CONTEST

1. The "Foolish Wives" contest will run for twelve days, starting Sunday, April 9, and ending Thursday, April 20. Each day a picture will be published representing a famous "Foolish Wife" from history, mythology, drama or fiction. Each day this newspaper will print the picture of one of the persons named in the list of forty-nine people which is printed today and will be reprinted every day.

2. The first thing necessary to win one of the ninety-two prizes is to clip from this newspaper each day the picture of a "Foolish Wife" and mark plainly in the space provided the name of the person represented.

3. The second thing to do is to supply the missing fiftieth name. Who is another famous "Foolish Wife"; whose name is not among the forty-nine? In naming the fiftieth "Foolish Wife" letters must not exceed fifty words, and must be written on only one side of the paper.

4. Prizes will be awarded to the contestants who submit the largest number of correct answers to the twelve illustrations, and in addition submit the best suggestion for the fiftieth "Foolish Wife." The first prize will be $50; the second, $10; then the next 40, $1 each, and the next 50, two tickets each to see "Foolish Wives."

5. Contestants may submit as many different sets of answers as they desire.

6. KEEP ALL YOUR ANSWERS UNTIL THE CLOSE OF THE CONTEST, and then mail in the twelve pictures with your answers, together with your suggestion for the fiftieth "Foolish Wife," to the Contest Editor, The Tribune and Leader-Press.

7. The contest will be judged by the Contest Editor. Address all letters and inquiries to him.

PRIZE WINNING LIST OF "FOOLISH WIVES"

Following are the names of forty-nine famous "Foolish Wives" of history, mythology and fiction. One of these is represented in the accompanying picture. If you familiarize yourself with the principal facts in the lives of the following forty-nine you will be able to identify easily the picture in the illustration.

The fiftieth "Foolish Wife" is missing, you will notice. Each contestant is asked to suggest a fiftieth name.

1. Adriana, wife of Antipholus, in Shakespear's "Comedy of Errors."
2. Alceste, wife of Admentus and daughter of Pelias, who was brought back from Hades by Hercules.
3. Alemena, wife of the Theban general, Amphitryon, and mother of Hercules.

Cuticura Heals Face Disfigured With Large Pimples

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads on my face. The pimples were hard, large and red, and festered and then scaled over. They itched so badly that I could not rest at night, and my face was disfigured. The trouble lasted about two months.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I bought more, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Ruby Thomas, R. R. 2, Somerville, Ohio, July 18, 1921.

Cuticura Soap to cleanse and purify, Cuticura Ointment to soothe and heal and Cuticura Talcum to powder and perfume are ideal for daily toilet purposes.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. K, Malden 48, Mass." Sold everywhere. Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Cuticura Soap shaves without mug.

DECISION ON FILLED MILK BILL EXPECTED AT MAY ASSIGNMENT

MADISON, Wis.—The Wisconsin Supreme Court meets for its May assignment on Tuesday, May 9, to call for argument most of the remaining cases on the January, 1922, calendar, Arthur McLeod, clerk, announced Tuesday.

The appeals to be argued at that time are not of wide importance throughout the state. It is expected that the court on May 9, will render its decision on the constitutionality of the filled-milk law enacted by the 1921 legislature, prohibiting the manufacture or sale of milk compounds made from skimmed-milk and cocoanut oil, in this state.

No motion for rehearing in the case of Hans Rodd, sheriff of Oneida county, whose removal from office by Governor Blaine was held void by the court, has yet been made. This action may be received within 30 days of the court decision.

RIGHT TO OPERATE WIRELESS OUTFIT UPHELD BY COURT

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—An amateur wireless plant is not a nuisance, according to Chancellor Martineau of Pulaski chancery court, who has refused to issue a restraining order against two local radio enthusiasts, father and son, to prohibit them from operating their wireless outfit between 9 p. m. and 7 a. m.

The restraining order was asked by several persons who complained of buzzing noises caused by the radio set interfering with their sleep.

CURTAINS THAT STAY "NEW"

For of what use is delicate color scheme in your bedroom if with a few weeks' exposure to light its delicate beauty has faded away? To what end do we work out a striking decorative effect in living room or sun parlor if it is only to be a brief few months till the sun has robbed it of all its glory and instead of a splendor of coloring which, in its boldness or richness, was really stunning or "smart," we have left only an attempted color-scheme faded and consequently crude? On the other hand, no woman who takes pride in her home wants common sense draperies at the sacrifice of decorative effect. Of Orinoka Guaranteed Sunfast and Tubfast Fabrics it can never be said that serviceability must be purchased at the expense of anything either in beauty or style. In Orinoka Guaranteed Fabrics we find the richest of materials, with all the lustre of silk when desired, yet always a fabric that neither sun can fade nor dust corrupt, because, when soiled, it may be laundered at home just as any muslin curtain, with care, is "done up." In this connection it is well to remember that light-weight drapery fabrics should never be rubbed or put through a wringer but carefully squeezed so that the threads of the material will not become twisted. Also the use of soap flakes, such as Lux, insures best results.

Your Prison Walls

MAN, by mechanically stimulating his senses, is steadily shoving away the walls with which nature originally imprisoned him. The first men on earth could see only as far as their eyes would carry. When the sun went down and darkness descended or when they entered a cave, their power of sight was almost obliterated. To overcome this, man extended the sense of sight by inventing portable fire—first firebrands, later candles, kerosene lamps and now the electric light.

The power of sight has further been extended by the invention of spectacles, field glasses, telescopes, magnifying glasses, camera and moving picture. Tonight, for instance, you go to a movie and, in a news-reel, as good as see something that may have happened 12,000 miles away. A telescope is being built, which, it is claimed, will bring the moon within twenty miles of the earth.

Extending the weak hearing powers of the human ear, we have ear trumpets, megaphones, telegraph, telephone—and, finally, the wireless. Stand on a corner in dead of night and you cannot hear a man talking two blocks away. Yet, using a peculiar arrangement of metals and chemicals (radiophone), you hear people thousands of miles away as clearly as if they were in the same room with you.

Man's sense of feeling is being intensified by the strain of civilization, especially in factories and cities. The bedlam of modern life is making us more susceptible to pain, by putting our nerves on edge. That's one reason we are not as "brave" as the ancient Spartans. Nerve strain frequently leads to Beard's disease—neurasthenia, a highly-strung condition in which the patient is conscious of nearly every nerve in his body.

In South American ports, it is said natives can tell, by sense of smell, whether it's an European, negro or Chinese that has alighted from a boat. All men once were like that. Now most of us have lost the sense of smell except for violent odors like limburger. The sense of taste, too, is less powerful than of old. The prospect is that man, when his civilization matures, will almost entirely have lost his senses of taste and smell, with the three more useful senses developed artificially to an uncanny degree.

Chinese Joy

THE On Leong Tong, organization of Chinese merchants, enjoys queer entertainment at its Philadelphia convention. A real Chinese opera was staged for the delegates. Since the show lasted twenty-two hours, it had to be split into two daily performances. Three fiddlers, three drummers and a gong pounder, hammering away at a five-note theme, made up the orchestra. The actors, brought from Chinatowns all over the country, worked mostly in pantomime. The orchestra had brisk competition in the form of noise, for a Chinese stage carpenter changes scenery for the next act while the show still is going on, without lowering the curtain. This will interest women: The actors, by Chinese custom, were all men, even in the feminine roles. A woman hasn't political equality in China, but she is considered too good to be put on exhibition for money.

An American, after an hour or so of a twenty-two hour Chinese theatrical performance, would begin to yell: "Jazz 'er up! Give us some speed! Put a little pep in 'er!" Not so, with the Chinese. Their most popular plays are continued on from one night to the next, like a serial story, some lasting a whole year. The nearest we have come to this is the serial movie thriller. The plot of a year-long Chinese play shows the audience every stage of a man's life, a war, an economic movement or the career of a dragon-devil.

Interesting to study the Chinese probably the oldest existing civilization. The Chinese claim their authentic history dates back at least 22,000 years. Possibly, when our civilization becomes as ancient as China's is now, we'll have the same viewpoint and philosophy. From the twenty-two hour Chinese opera, you observe that the Chinese takes things patiently as they become and enjoys life with a slow natural serenity and calm. The Chinese are far behind us in many things. Somehow, though, they nearly all seem contented, happy. Unlike white men, they are not shattering their nerves by trying to cram a lifetime into a day.

That is the real lurking peril of white civilization—the danger that nerves will become so "on edge" that there'll be a breakdown, possibly a lapse into race-insanity, of which the World War was a sample.

Burning Money

MILLIONS of tree seeds have been given to France and England by the American Forestry Association. The gifts were officially accepted by Ambassador Jusserand of France and J. J. Broderick, counsellor of the British embassy. They are to be planted in the devastated area of France, and in England to replace trees which were cut down for war purposes.

England and France both realize the value of trees. France, for instance, once was a dense wood. Now her tree growth is so scarce that peasants collect bundles of small twigs. Unless we stop destroying our forests, our country in another generation may be as lacking in forests as France. President Harding by proclamation sets aside the week beginning April 16 as Forest Protection Week. The last day will be the golden anniversary of Arbor Day. It is one of the few "special weeks" worth observing 1,000 times over.

Your line of thought probably runs like this: "Forest preservation is up to Uncle Sam and to the corporations that destroy the forests to make money. What can I, a citizen who rarely chops down a tree, do to increase forests?" For one thing, whenever you camp or stroll in the woods, you can be extremely careful about starting forest fires. The area of forest land swept by fire each year is about twice the area cut over annually by logging crews. Our country has an average of 32,500 forest fires a year.

If you have children, teach them that preservation of forests is the only way to insure an ample supply of lumber for the future without paying sky-high prices. With a little common sense, Americans would raise a yearly crop of trees, just as they raise wheat, corn and cotton.

Luxury

To own a private railroad car appears to be the pinnacle of luxury, in popular imagination. The Pullman Company checks up and discovers that only five or six private cars are owned by Americans. In the lucky list are Charles M. Schwab, Harry Sinclair, J. C. Brady, Harry Payne Whitney and the Vanderbilt family. Others rent a car when they need it. The rich of our country run to yachts, a throw-back to boyhood's inherited desire to be a sailor. The only real romance in railroading is in the engineer's cab. Ask the boys who hang around country town depots.

The road and bridge committee of the county board of supervisors met at the court house this afternoon to consider the purchase of an automobile for the county highway commissioner, the machine to cost not over $1,000.

Joseph Wais, the bantam catcher, of the Outcasts last year, will leave this evening for Chicago where he will join Mique Malloy's Lumberjacks of the Wisconsin-Illinois league.

A big change in the business district of the city will be made this summer when the State bank moves into the building now occupied by the J. J. Poehling company. Many improvements will be made by the State bank before it moves into the building. Among the changes will be a corner entrance to the building.

The Norwegian Lutheran church at Halfway Creek, east of Holmen is today a mass of ruins as a result of being struck by a bolt of lightning late Saturday night during the storm. Lack of fire-fighting facilities and the late discovery of the flames made it impossible to cope successfully with the fire. The loss is $10,000.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The board of public works is making a special effort to have the old wooden sidewalks relaid with cement or tile walks and Sildewalk Inspector Gautsch is to make a thorough examination of all walks in the city. Plank walks that can be repaired are marked with red chalk which is intended as the property owners' notice to repair the walk. Walks in bad condition are condemned and the owner given notice to have a new walk laid within a certain length of time.

The new La Crosse Lutheran Hospital will be formally dedicated on Christmas day although work on the building will be finished November 1. The project of erecting the hospital was started by the Norwegian Lutherans but they were helped by the English and German Lutherans, so the name Norwegian Lutheran hospital was changed to La Crosse Lutheran Hospital.

As a result of the recent state grocers' convention held in this city, dealers all over the state are adopting the cash system and it is probable that in a short time credit at a grocery store will have become a thing of the past. The grocers appointed a committee at the convention to take up the matter and their work is already bearing fruit.

The Blindness of Noah

By JANE OSBORN

Some one once condemned co-education with the statement that if a young man could daily sit beside young girls in the classroom and laboratory and not be distracted by them he wasn't worth educating and if he were distracted by them, then the system was a mistake.

Noah Jenkins assuredly was not of the latter class. He certainly was not blind to the charms of the young women who attended classes with him at Winton college. But the distraction had not been sufficiently disturbing to impair the seriousness of his work during the first three years of his college course. Then came psychology 4, when for the first time he and little Mary Jefferson from her entrance in Winton as a freshman the year before, had attracted the admiring eye of Noah Jenkins. As far as he was concerned, she was the one perfectly distracting of all the 500 odd co-eds enrolled there.

And now he had to attend classes with her. What was more disturbing, he had to attend classes seated right beside her. Dr. Gregory always had the seats in his classes assigned alphabetically. In this way it was an easy matter to note the absentees without taking the time to call a roll. And there was no one in psychology 4, this term, whose name came alphabetically nearer to Jenkins than Jefferson.

Mary had proved more and more disturbing and distracting as the term had progressed, and Noah found himself taking notes mechanically without an idea in his head of what Dr. Gregory was explaining. Not that Mary sought to be disturbing. Though she and Noah were counted as good friends outside of the classroom and she had gone to more than one college dance with him, she greeted him with merely a smile and a nod of the head when he took her seat before the lecture and seemed to be oblivious of his presence while the lecture ensued.

Then one day Dr. Gregory posted on the bulletin board outside the classroom a list of students with whom he would like to confer. On such lists were usually written the students whose midterm tests had shown that their prospects of getting through final examinations were not of the most promising. On this list were the names of Noah Jenkins and Mary Jefferson.

Noah passed a group of four or five girls of his acquaintance as he made his way at the appointed time to the office of Dr. Gregory. He would have saluted them with a hail-fellow-well-met doffing of his small cap if it had not been that one of these girls, the smallest and darkest eyed of the group, was Mary Jefferson. So Noah's greeting showed confusion with a touch of pique.

"Poor Noah," laughed the senior in the group. "He's got to confer with old Greg. And Noah has pulled such good marks right through his course. Wouldn't it be a crime if Greggy stuck him? Psychology 4 I guess was his Waterloo, but then any one might know that he couldn't shine in psychology."

"I don't see why," protested Mary Jefferson, and then she wished she had been silent. "Noah Jenkins——"

"Nice," echoed the senior, "but such ties!"

"And socks," added a junior in the group.

"The only time he looks decent is at one of the formal dances," amplified the senior, "for then he has to wear black. Why, the other day when President Smith had us seniors at his house for afternoon tea, he wore tan shoes and raspberry wool socks, with a lemon yellow shirt, and a violet and red striped necktie!"

"Just plain lacks taste," said the junior with finality.

"Oh, well, it is in just these ways that we find out what a man's real nature is like. It's simply lacking in taste. That's why the girls don't propinque him. Taste means so much in a girl's happiness," Mary Jefferson had listened to this vivisection of Noah's character with well-concealed embarrassment. While it was once whispered about that Mary Jefferson and Noah Jenkins were "nearly engaged," the fact that Mary had imported a boy from her home town for a recent dance and was no more seen walking with Noah Jenkins on Saturday afternoons, made it seem apparent to her friends that she had ceased to be his champion.

The fact was that Mary had become disturbed and distressed over the manifest lack of taste on the part of Noah. He had tried to propose to her one afternoon two months before. She might have accepted had he worn subdued colors, but he had worn those raspberry socks, with a green shirt—a vivid jade green—and round his neck was tied a cravat of purple and yellow. Mary's esthetic nature had pulled her off from the heals of sentimentality and she had refused.

Meantime Noah Jenkins had gone to see Dr. Gregory—odd, good-natured, wise old Dr. Gregory—called Greggy by the undergraduates, but remembered as an understanding father confessor by more than one of those who had graduated from Winton.

As Noah entered his office Dr. Gregory peered over his glasses and did not fail to make mental note of the medley of colors. First he told Noah bluntly that his work in psychology 4 was below par and then that he had looked up his record and saw that he was usually a good student.

"I want you to tell me, Mr. Jenkins," said Dr. Gregory, as a physician asks for symptoms, "what peculiar circumstances exist in this class of mine that have resulted in your poor work." Then Dr. Gregory leveled his clear eyes on the young man and seemed to exact the truth.

"I suppose I am a fool," began Noah when he saw that there was no object or hope of keeping back the truth. And somehow before Noah left Dr. Gregory had learned that Noah Jenkins had failed in his tests because he had been unable to concentrate his thoughts when distracted by Mary Jefferson, and that his state was even more hopeless as far as psychology 4 was concerned, because Mary Jefferson had let him know that she was perfectly indifferent. Noah suggested that Dr. Gregory change their seats, if a plausible excuse might be found.

This suggestion Dr. Gregory ignored. He looked long and amusedly at Gregory and then held his hand out to him.

"I am glad to have talked with you," said he. "With your studious habits and good mind I know you will get through. Perhaps the situation is not so bad as you think."

Very soon afterward Mary Jefferson, whose work had also fallen below par, in spite of her good record elsewhere, approached Dr. Gregory in consultation, and somehow the understanding old professor found out that Mary Jefferson was worrying over Noah. He overheard bits of student gossip and decided to set matters straight.

That is why he chose as the subject for his lecture not long afterward the subect of color blindness. That it was more usual among men than women he told his class. Then with a whimsical smile he added: "Some men go through life never knowing that they are color blind. They wear atrocious color combinations—red and yellow striped ties and purple socks and all that sort of thing, and get the reputation for lacking taste when really their taste is not at fault. It is all very curious."

Not long afterward, Mary Jefferson, smiling shyly, waited until after class to consult Dr. Gregory. He greeted her with the good news that her work on the test a few days ago had shown marked improvement. If she continued to work as well there would be no danger of failing at her final examination.

"I wanted to tell you," she said blushing, "of something that has made me very happy. It was the oddest coincidence that you lectured about color blindness. I am going to tell you because I want to thank you. I don't know just how to say it—but Noah and I are engaged and it never could have happened if I hadn't realized that he was just color blind. Of course, he can't help the kind of ties he wears. And after this I'm going to pick all his socks and ties and things out for him."

Pretty Mary Jefferson didn't finish college, because she consented to marry Noah and to go with him out to western mountains where he was engaged on an engineering expedition. Before they went Noah sought out old Dr. Gregory.

"I want to tell you something," he said. "Perhaps I ought to call it a confession. From that lecture of yours on color blindness Mary decided I was color blind. I had to take a test for that before I could get my job with the engineering company. I passed 100 per cent. But Mary doesn't know. If you hadn't just happened to lecture on color blindness when you did she would never have forgiven me for the awful ties and socks I used to wear. Wasn't it an odd coincidence that you happened to lecture on that subject?"

"A very curious coincidence," said Dr. Gregory who was also keeping a little secret of his own.

Peggy Plans A Party

"All aboard for the poorhouse," sang out Peggy as she wrapped an old shawl around the faded, long gingham apron she was wearing and put on a battered straw bonnet. "I do hope it's a good party, for I helped Miss Anstruther plan it!"

She blew a kiss to her mother, and went out to join a strangely tattered and disreputable group that was waiting in front of the house. They were on their way to the League's "poorhouse party" at Miss Anstruther's.

There was already a large number at the house when they arrived—old, bent over ladies, tattered youngsters, old men in overalls, and hoboes. They had come in response to invitations written in pencil on pieces of wrapping paper, and they all seemed to be in the last stages of poverty.

When Peggy arrived, a game of "Over the Hills to the Poorhouse" had already started. A double row of chairs was placed down the room, there being one chair less than there were people. The boys and girls marched around the chairs while music was played. The music stopped suddenly and all scrambled for a seat. Each time a chair was taken away, and so some one was always left out and had to go to the "poorhouse." The last one to stay was given a tin lunch box for a prize.

This game was followed by Peggy's favorite, the alphabet game. The crowd was divided into two sides, facing each other. Each one was given a letter of the alphabet on a card. On each side there were an equal number of letters. The "teacher" stood in the center and called out a word. The letters then rushed out of line to form the word, and count was kept to see which side formed words first. Words like "poorhouse," "hobo," "ragged," and "tattered" were used.

After that the crowd was divided into groups of five each, and each group put on a shadow-show, while the rest were an audience. The folding doors between the big living room and the library were pulled apart and a sheet was stretched across. There was another door leading into the library and the performers went in through this, while the audience was seated in the living room. On the library side the room was in darkness, except for a kerosene lamp on a chair. Between the lamp and the sheet the pantomimes were put on.

One group staged a wild western play with an Indian pow-wow and thrilling rescue. Another group put on a grotesque prize fight. Each bunch worked up something original which kept the others rocking with laughter. There wasn't any prize for the best "movie," as each group was sure they had put on the best stunt of the evening.

Then the inmates of the poorfarm were called in to eat. There were so many of them that they were served in relays. They sat around the kitchen table, with a red tablecloth on it, and ate brown bread sandwiches, pickles, coffee, and pie from tin pie pans, and used the kitchen knives and forks.

Then the "old folks" hobbled home, and it was with a satisfied feeling that Peggy once more wrapped her shawl about her.

Customer: "Why do you keep telling me all these horrible murder stories?"

Barber: "Well, you see, I find they help me lots by making your hair stand on end."

ONE REEL YARNS

HIS OWN ROOM

Harley had lain there for nearly a year now, in that little room, with the four walls for the ends of his world. Ever since he had hurt his back he had been in the same place. He was never particularly lonely, though his mother was gone all day.

He didn't mind so much not getting about. He had his books. And the doctor had promised that some day he could be without the cast. So he lay in his little room and waited.

It was a very tiny room, with one window that looked out on a brick wall. But it was the wallpaper he liked the best. It was a dingy brown that once had had some sort of figure in it, but which was now faded and cracked and torn in the strangest manner. There were some cracks above his head, for instance, that formed the face of a queer old man with a long nose and a jolly grin. Harley dreamily made up all sorts of stories about him.

There was a blotch opposite his bed that looked like a camel, and Harley's imagination went riding on him across the desert. There was another place on the paper which looked like an old witch. Harley had just discovered her and was in the midst of making up an exciting story about her when Miss Denton found him.

Miss Denton's cook, who lived in the same building, was sick, and Miss Denton had come to see her. She wandered into Harley's room by mistake. She liked him from the first, and after that came often to see him and to bring him new books.

One day she said she had a surprise for him, and that his mother knew about it but she wouldn't tell him until next day. Then next day she drove up in her motor car and the chauffeur carried Harley out into it, and next thing he knew he was in a lovely neat room in Miss Denton's house in the suburbs, where he was to make a visit.

A week later Harley was back. "I never saw such an ungrateful child," said Miss Denton to her cook. "I meant to keep him here a couple of months, but he insisted on going back to his own room. He said he didn't like our wallpaper. Of all things! When we have such nice, tinted walls. I can't understand it." But the cook, who knew Harley, only smiled tenderly.

THE HAPPY COOPER

There is something about the work of the pine woods cooper that seems to make him the foremost of optimists. He is invariably happy and hopeful. All day long the sturdy chopping of his broad axe to the tuneful tattoo of his mallet can be heard above the shouts of the mule drivers, and the songs of the negroes as they roll the creaking barrels up the gangway of the turpentine still. This negro cooper makes all his own staves and shapes his own barrel heads; then with the help of a framewise of his own design he puts the staves together until the roudure of their arrangement makes a barrel. Forthwith, then he hammers on the hoops with surprising skill and dispatch. His shop is always littered with snowy strips of pine, with slabs of dry bark, with defective staves; and the air is aromatic and resinous there. The stoutest of scouts are exhaled from the shining vats. It is said that a pine woods cooper lives longer than any of his fellows; and he might well be immortal, with his wholesome, clean work to do and such delicious air to breathe. His profession must affect his character, for he is always singing and whistling, keeping time with his axe, his hammer, or his mallet. And he interprets very well the liberty, the airiness, the joyous freedom that abide in spacious forests of yellow pines.

Cold feet often keep a hot head out of trouble.

The Boy Who Started to Town With a Hundred Dollars

The advice they gave him for getting on in the world was simple and familiar enough: "Keep what you have, and build on it. Be careful what you do and it will grow into more."

It's a safe rule—with money or health, but a good many overlook the rule with health, until they have lost what they had. Then it's hard to get a new supply.

Postum is a splendid help in saving health from the very common losses through the drug elements of tea and coffee—whose effects on the nervous system any doctor can tell you.

Thousands of people who think it wise to be as careful of their health as they are of their dollars are users of Postum. They find this famous cereal beverage a delightful drink with any meal, and it's free from any disturbing element.

You can begin with Postum today, with an order to your grocer. The road to health is a good road for anybody to follow. "Save what you have, and build on it," is sound policy for everybody.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by all grocers.

BROTHER OF SLAIN MAN ON STAND IN KNEESKERN TRIAL

Elmer Van Brocklin Declares Accused Drove Him from Brother's Cabin

DEFENSE OPPOSES INTRODUCTION OF SHOT TAKEN FROM GROUND

Ruling of Judge Withheld Till More Evidence is Offered

DECORAH, Ia.—Elmer Van Brocklin, star witness for the state in the trial of B. F. Kneeskern, was on the stand when court convened Tuesday morning.

Van Brocklin, brother of Charles Van Brocklin, who with the latter's wife was shot to death last December, testified late Monday that he was driven away from his brother's cabin by Kneeskern on the afternoon of December 11, 1921, the day the murders were committed.

Van Brocklin said he approached the cabin about two o'clock and that when he reached a point fifty or sixty rods east of it, Kneeskern darted out of the structure, saw the witness coming and rushed back into the shack, returning with a shotgun.

He intercepted Van Brocklin a short distance from the cabin, the latter testified, and told him to come no closer.

Van Brocklin said he returned to the home of a neighbor where he had been visiting and that the last he saw of Kneeskern, the cattle buyer, was re-entering the cabin.

Van Brocklin's assertion that the alleged threat was made about 2 p. m., is considered important by the state as it is attempting to prove that the couple were slain between 1 and 2 p. m.

Defense counsel vigorously opposed efforts of the state to introduce at the Monday session as evidence 15 pieces of gunshot said to have been dug from the ground near the Van Brocklin cabin by Sam Winters, Elmer Van Brocklin, brother of the murdered man and Pat Fitzpatrick, and which the state claims were fired through a coffee pot by Kneeskern about an hour before the Van Brocklins were killed.

Opposition of the defense is based on the fact that the shot was not dug up until March 11 three months after the crime, and that the discovery was made at a place which was at all times accessible to the public. The defense also objects because it is claimed that the shots were not in the possession of the three men all the time from the day of its discovery until the trial.

Judge Taylor announced he would withhold his ruling on introduction of the shot until more testimony had been given.

O. K. DAHLE, SPRING GROVE, CANDIATE FOR M. OF C. AT LARGE FOR 2 COUNTIES

SPRING GROVE, Minn.—The only person so far to file for the nomination of representative-at-large, for the first district representing Fillmore and Houston counties, is O. K. Dahle of this place. He was for sixteen years county attorney for Houston county; second assistant chief clerk of the house of representatives during the 1907 session and first assistant at the following session. Last year he acted as president of the Houston county farm bureau. He was born on a farm in Houston county and followed farming for a number of years. He recently placed a tenant upon his farm and moving into Spring Grove, returning to his work as lawyer, which profession he had followed for some years.

The HOME GARDEN

What is Home without a Garden?

ARISTOCRATIC ARTICHOKES

Globe or French artichokes have become regular stock during the winter in the city markets of the north, coming from southern and California gardens where they may be grown to good advantage. They may be grown in the north, but it is a difficult matter to bring them through the winter and hardly worth the trouble.

While not often grown from seeds where good suckers or offshoots may be secured of a good variety, many southern and California gardeners rely upon starting a stock farm from seed, which is planted about March 1 in the most favored localities. As the demand for the artichoke as a table delicacy in the north makes it a commercial proposition as well as a fine garden vegetable where it can be grown, it culture is being taken up more extensively.

Heavily manured, deep rich soil is best for the development of the artichoke. The seed should be planted in a finely prepared seed bed, best of all in a hot bed or cold frame, the young plants to be set in the permanent quarters when five or six inches tall. As they need considerable room and sucker freely, they should be given ample space for development. The "artichoke" is merely the flower bud of the plant, the fleshy scales of the involucre or outer covering, being the edible portion. The plant, being a perennial, does not usually bear its flowers or buds until the second season although in some parts of California a crop is harvested in April. Cultivation throughout the growing season is one of the main factors in the production of big tender heads or "globes."

ART NOTES

The interest in the present exhibit of oils began early and ran strong until the schools closed for this vacation, since when it has been fair and rather steady. It will no doubt be strong this week, now that the duties of the last week of term are past. Noticing the register of daily attendance we notice the numbers run as follows for a series of days: 280, 282, 275, 117, 98, 60, 335, 280, 282, etc. On Friday last the total attendance had reached 1,300. This shows an unusual interest for the first week.

* * * *

One thing, the schools began early to visit the exhibit in large groups. In some instances gallery talks were arranged for before hand. On one day the "talking machine" failed to function late in the day, and so, unfortunately, one large group of interested pupils from the vocational school failed to have their talk. But five talks had already been given that day by the same "machine," and in spite of giving her "gas," "crank-ing her," an everything, only a few gasps and guttural noises could be produced.

* * * *

The evenings this week will have to be Thursday again, not Tuesday, and of course, Saturday evening from 7:00 to 9:00.

* * * *

This will be the last week, though the exhibit will perhaps be open on Sunday afternoon earlier this time, i. e., from 1:00 to 5:00.

* * * *

The afternoon "teas" have come to be a most pleasant feature of the exhibit. Refreshments make one feel chatty and sociable; and after a cup of the delicious beverage (such as is regularly brewed by the ladies in charge) and a bit of nice cake, one feels rested and ready to enjoy further inspection of the pictures. There is nothing formal about these "teas"; they are merely homey and restful. Plan to meet your friends there especially on Wednesday and Friday afternoon from 2:00 to 5:00 and enjoy this privilege.

* * * *

It was a nice, gracious thing for one of our members to do. We refer to her bringing her pretty copy of the famous "Blue Boy" of Gainsborough's, and hanging it for people to see, now that the recent purchase of the original in this country is a topic of talk in art circles. $500,000, it seems, was the purchase price.

* * * *

A pictures exhibit reveals interested people and interesting personalities. People discover pictures and pictures discover people; and it is often very engrossing to a spectator to observe this "discovering."

* * * *

Some reflectors have been offered to the Art Association by one of our interested and considerate members. The kindness is appreciated and the gift, we are sure, will prove very useful.

* * * *

According to a catalog just received of the Wisconsin Painters and Sculptors exhibit now showing at the Milwaukee Art Institute, Mrs. C. K. Pettingill and Mr. Hubert Morley of this city are represented, the former by three paintings and the latter by four. This is an honor for them personally and recognition of their merit as well as fine for La Crosse.

* * * *

Now that the Association year closes with this month and since the campaign for renewal of memberships and for new members is on, it will be an accommodation to the Association if the matter of renewals be promptly attended to. Renewals may be sent in at any time; likewise new members may send their fees at once, and membership cards will be sent out dated to May 1, 1923. This would be a fine thing to do just now in order first to save the membership committee or secretary the bother of personal solicitation or notification by mail and, second, the fees in thus early would take care promptly of the expenses of the present exhibit. Let's renew now. Checks may be mailed in Carl Rau, treasurer, or deposits made at the Security Bank, credited to the Art Association of La Crosse.

New Memberships and renewals of old members are being received daily. The list of sustaining memberships is growing, but many more could and should be sustaining members. The list of present and past "sustainers" shows the following names: Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rau, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Hixon, Mrs. L. F. Easton, Dr. and Mrs. E. Evans, Dr. and Mrs. A. Gunderson Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Bradfield, Mrs. Agnes McCord, Mr. James Hogan, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Colman, Mrs. Elsie Giles Scott, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hixon, Mrs O. J. Oyen, Mr. D. O. Coate, Miss Gertrude Hogan, Mrs. F. G. Tiffany, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Brindley, Mr. F. A. Reiman.

Three or four of these persons were formerly on the list of sustaining members but are not now, while others are now on for the first time. Let's make this list grow. A few memberships have been lost by removal from the city, by deaths, and other causes; but it is a good list, and shows a most commendable interest in this civic enterprise by a group of people occupied with numerous other affairs.

The Kansas State Normal School, at Emporia is to have this exhibit as soon as La Crosse is through with it.

* * * *

Nation-wide interest in art was aroused in the United States by the World's Fair at Chicago in 1893, stimulated by such a collection of the old masters in painting as never before was brought to this country and, because of laws since passed preventing their removal from their own countries, never again can be seen here. Likewise the artistic design and finish which were manifest in the "useful arts" products of other countries added greatly to our awakening. The need, the usefulness, the practicability of art in all commercial products began to impress us as never before, and thus began to act as great incentive to art interests in our largest cities first, and then gradually to spread, in one way or another, to the smaller cities. New art schools have sprung up; the attendance at the older art institutions has greatly increased; schools of design have prospered as never before; art associations have been formed throughout the land, holding exhibits and fostering the desire for better conditions of living. And especially has the educational value of art training been made general. The Kansas State Normal School is merely in line with the movement everywhere.

BEAUTY CULTURE HINTS

There is real common sense in just noticing whether the hair is well kept to judge of a woman's neatness, or good taste. If you are one of those who try to make the most of your hair, remember that it is not advisible to wash the hair with any cleanser made for all purposes, but always use some good shampoo. You can enjoy the very best by getting some canthrox from your druggist, dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Dandruff, excess oil, and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

BUSINESS TIPS

BY ALBERT APPLE

The coal strike has cut bituminous production from 11,000,000 tons a week down to 3,500,000 tons.

Mine operators claim that the open-shop output can be increased as soon as a market develops.

The strike has almost completely paralyzed mining in Ohio, Indiana as Illinois. West Virginia mines are at 65 per cent normal production.

The strategy of the strikers threatens to hit the steel industry a hard blow by shutting off the supply of Connellsville coke. Some of the independent steel companies already have "gone out of the market." With coke supply shut off, the steel industry would quickly return to stagnation.

Big Steel Output

The steel industry in the last six weeks has been producing at an annual rate bigger than any pre-war year.

March ingot output was 2,370,751 tons, against 802,376 tons last July, and 1,742,345 tons in February, 1922.

After Business

Sales of postage stamps in 50 leading postoffices continue climbing, reflecting the expansion of the "go-getter" campaign for more business. Stamp sales in March were the largest on record for that month and nearly twice as big as in March, 1913.

Autos Selling

Auto industry keeps on climbing. More cars were manufactured in March than in any month since August, 1920. Shipments from factories gained 32 per cent over February and 65 per cent over March, 1921. Part of this revival is seasonal—regular spring business.

Home Properties

Homes, up for sale, are moving slowly. This is the situation in nearly every large city. Few buyers, but plenty of lookers, indicating a heavy demand is being dammed up, to break through later in a big turn-over of property.

Freight Movement

April is developing as a dull month for coal sales. This is cutting sharply into volume of freight traffic. Nearly every other class of freight, except farm products, continues gaining. Freight movement now is less than in the corresponding period of 1920, but about a fourth bigger than a year ago.

CONSERVATION BOARD DIRECTS PLANTING OF THOUSANDS OF PINES

Furnishes Trees to Planters at Two Dollars a Thousand; Could Use Million

MADISON, Wis.—Upwards of 4,000,000 pines and spruce seedlings will be planted in the state this year through the state conservation commission announced Commissioner C. L. Harrington on Tuesday. These young trees will be distributed at a nominal charge of $2 per 1,000 in practically every county in the state. The largest number of orders have come, however, from the south central belt of the state.

"We could use a million young trees this spring if we had them," said Mr. Harrington. "I am leaving now on a trip to the nursery at Trout Lake, Superior, and other points to start the work for the spring. Our nursery at Trout Lake will begin shipping out these young trees shortly.

"We neither plant nor ship any other than coniferous trees. This is because this type of tree is the hardest to grow. They no not spring up from the cut over land as do the other kinds of trees. We shall plant in our nursery this spring over a million spruce and pine seeds which we buy mainly in the east.

"The coniferous trees make splendid wind breaks and our seedlings and young trees are in great demand throughout the state. When a pine forest is cut over you will see no more pines until they have been planted. This is what we are attempting to furnish."

JET IS AN OLD FAVORITE

No one knows when jet first came into use. It has been used since before historic times and was common in the bronze age, from which times have come jet beads, buttons, rings, amulets and other ornaments. Julius Caesar alludes to the abundance of jet in Britain, and jet ornaments are found with Roman relics in them. The monks used jet for rosary beads at Whitby Abbey, England and at Whitney, where it was found in the greatest abundance. It occurs in irregular masses in hard shale known as jet rock. Often microscopic examination discloses coniferous wood in the composition of jet. It is probable that jet was developed when masses of wood drifted down the river, rotted or became water-logged and sank out at sea, becoming gradually buried in a deposit of the mud, which hardened eventually into shale. Sometimes drops of bitumen are found in jet cavities, which seems to more or less confirm the supicion if its wood origin.

ANTS CARRY UMBRELLAS

One of the greatest curiosities of insect life, so far as habits are concerned, is to be found in the queer "parasol" or "umbrella" ant, common in all parts of Tropical America, from Texas to Venezuela. The common name by which the creature is known has been bestowed because of a queer habit this species of ant has of stripping certain kinds of trees and shrub of their foliage and carrying the leave to their nests. An army of these ants which have been off on a foraging expedition present the queerest sigt imaginable as they march in long columns by twos, fours, and sixes, each holding the stem of a leaf in its jaws, the leaf itself shading the little insects body lik ea parasol. The early naturalists imagined that these ants carried leaves for the sole purpose of protecting themselves against the rays of the tropical sun, but investigation shows that they have another use for the bits of green they gather. The leaves are only wanted as soil upon which to grow a certain species of fungi of which the parasol ant is very fond.

Flying Helmets

Six forest patrol aviators in the Olympics were presented with flying helmets made from skins of wildcats by women of Humptulips City, Washington.

Try This If You Have Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this just get about four ounces of plain ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and dizzing of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

CLUB WOMEN GUESTS OF DR. HOUCK AND MRS. CORA WRIGHT

THE LA CROSSE Business Women's club of the Y. W. C. A. last night voted itself an independent organization and will hereafter be known as the La Crosse Business Women's club. This change was made in the course of the club's revision of its constitution, the first article of which deals with the name of the organization.

In a statement giving reasons for the withdrawal from the association, Miss Dora Marshall, secretary of the club, said:

"Organized by the Y. W. C. A. some five years ago, the Business Women's club has grown to such proportions that it was thought wise for it to separate itself from affiliation with any other organization and become a separate entity, to stand on its own feet, as it were. Membership in the association has never been a requirement for membership in the club, and for some time it has been felt by members of the club that the time has come for it to take a definite place among the clubs of the city. This action was taken in all kindliness toward the Y, and the club will no doubt continue to do all in its power to further the interests of the association."

The viewpoint of the association was given by Mrs. Charles S. Cone, acting secretary, in a statement as follows: "This very question came before the national Y. W. C. A. convention in Cleveland last year, discussion resulting in the advice that when an organization formed within the Y. had grown to greater proportions and usefulness it should be permitted to withdraw and go on to independent organization. The Y. W. will have as its reward the pride and joy of creation and can go on with the formation of other interests to take its place."

A rising vote of thanks was given the Y. W. C. A. for its many courtesies to the club and for its cooperation in planning club suppers and other activities.

Rev. Nellie Mann Updale, pastor of St. Paul's Universalist church, was chosen delegate from the club to the convention of the State Federation of Business Women's clubs at Baraboo in May. The club also decided to purchase a tree for planting on Highway 12 in memory of the county's war dead.

Preceding the business meeting members of the club were guests of Dr. Mary Piper Houck and Mrs. Cora Wright at a dinner served at the Y. W. at half-past six o'clock. Forty were seated at one long table, arranged with a circular table at either end and with spring-like decorations of pussy willows roses and yellow tapers in crystal holders. The name cards were in harmony, with a twig of the pussy willow thrust through. An appetizing chicken dinner, topped off with ice cream and cake, was served.

At the close of the meal an interesting "Kitchen name" contest proved a pleasing and amusing diversion.

THE DINNER to be given at the Congregational church Wednesday at 6:15 in behalf of the Women's Union Christian Colleges of the Orient, is attracting much attention among La Crosse Women. Mrs. A. J. Eberhart is the general chairman; Mrs. O. J. Oyen, committee on tickets; Mrs. G. W. Bunge, chairman of dinner committee; Mrs. Charles Hickisch and Mrs. Kathary, committee on place of meeting; Mrs. John Salzer, program committee; Mrs. E. C. Dixon, publicity. The reception committee includes the presidents of the several missionary societies, also Mrs. Cone representing the Y. W. C. A. and Mrs. D. O. Coate of the College club.

Miss Green, the speaker, is thoroughly conversant with her subject. The leadership of the women of the orient during the next twenty-five years is a matter of vital interest to every woman of the world. Thirteen denominations and twenty-three colleges are back of this movement and the colleges supported are: Ginling, Yenching, Tokyo, Vallore Medical, Madras, Peking, Medical and Isabella Thoburn. Miss Green is secretary of the Executive committee of the Women's Union Christian Colleges of the Orient, and has traveled widely over Scotland, Wales and England with Pussyfoot Johnson.

WOMEN IN THE LIFE BOAT SERVICE

Creswell, near Newcastle-on-Tyne, on a practically wild and stormy part of the Northumberland coast of England, has a coast guard detachments in which women figure very prominently. There are three women whose combined ages average more than 71 years, and one of these women has never missed a service since 1874. When the boat goes out the women are there to do what they can in the way of rendering assistance to the men in the boat and those who are being rescued. They can "take a line" and work in the surf with the best of men, but the males always man the boat. On one occasion after forming a living chain for the purpose of rescuing some men from a wrecked vessel one of these women walked along the coast through the wildest kind of a storm, a distance of five miles, to secure additional help from the next station. When she arrived she was so exhausted that she could not tell the reason of her errand, but it was surmised and help was sent before she recovered.

HOW IT STANDS

Willis—What is the present law regarding the use of liquor? Gillis—The anti-beer bill allows the use of whisky, according to the interpretation of government agents, who are forbidden to search your premises according to a recent decision of the supreme court, which permits the sale of booze, subject of course, to the recent ruling of the attorney general, that you can drink it if you don't conflict with the opinion recently rendered by the federal courts, vacating the injunction obtained in accordance with the order of the circuit courts as expressed in the latest amendment to the drug act.—Judge.

An old Scotchman, David Gordon, was seriously ill, with scant hope for his recovery. He had been wheedled into making a will by relatives, and they were gathered about his bedside watching him laboriously sign it. He got as far as D-a-v-i—then fell back exhausted.

"D, Uncle David, D," exhorted a nephew.

FOREST PRODUCTS LABORATORY RETAINS U. S. APPROPRIATION

Will Continue Experiments for Paper from Flax Straw

LENROOT WINS CONTROL OF POSTAL PATRONAGE

Contests in Beck and Voight Districts Won by His Men

(By Betty Pruett Farrington)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(Special to The Tribune)—Continuation of experiments by the Forest Products Laboratory in Madison on the use of flax straw to make pulp and paper is assured under an amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill adopted by the senate. The amendment, offered by Senator Robert M. La Follette, makes specific provision that $15,000 of the $340,000 appropriated for the experiment station shall be used for this purpose.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, who had charge of the measure, offered no objection to the amendment. In the estimates, he said the allocation of this fund for the experiments with flax straw provided for, but that the amendment of Mr. La Follette would insure that the money be devoted to this purpose.

Lenroot Fights Free Seeds

During consideration of the bill, there was an interesting little fight over "free seeds". Senator Irvine L. Lenroot attacked the $360,000 appropriation for this purpose. The seeds in question are those which anyone may obtain free of charge by writing to his representative in congress.

The appropriation was first thrown out by the house appropriation committee, then put in again in the house. The senate appropriations committee threw it out and the senate on the first vote took similar action, but in the final vote retained the appropriation by a vote of 31 to 30.

While Mr. Lenroot fought the appropriation, Mr. Follette voted for it. In a dispute with Senator Reed, of Missouri, Mr. Lenroot contended the great farm organizations represented in Washington were against this appropriation.

"Because they believe it is taking an appropriation away from agriculture that is used for the benefit of senators and representatives," said Mr. Lenroot, "with the idea that it is going to help them politically, and that the purpose behind it is not to aid agriculture, whereas the $300,000 or $400,000 or more used each year for the distribution of free seeds could be used in experimental work for agriculture and would be of some real value to agriculture. That is the ground upon which their opposition is based; and I think it is a good ground".

And then he added:

"In my judgment, if it were not for the fact that senators and members of the house have control of the distribution of free seeds to our constituents, the appropriation for the distribution of free seeds would have gone out of this bill long ago."

Lenroot Abandons Return Visit

Mr. Lenroot, who last week announced that he would return to the state at the end of the month, said he had been forced to change his plans under pressure of official business. The senator desires to be here during consideration of the Fordney tariff bill, which is scheduled to begin next Thursday, and will not make the trip back home.

La Follette to Fight Tariff

Mr. La Follette has been preparing his opposition to the Fordney tariff bill as reported from the finance committee of which he is a member. Although he voted in the negative with the democrats, he does not plan to sign their report. He may submit "minority views" of his own. On the floor of the senate, he will fight the bill.

Lenroot Has Patronage.

Confirmation by the senate of fourteen postmaster nominations for smaller towns in Wisconsin, and particularly in the districts of Representatives Beck, of Viroqua, and Voight of Sheboygan, was in accordance with the policy to proceed on nomination having the approval of Mr. Lenroot. With respect to several of these nominations, there have been disputes between the Senator and the Representatives.

The confirmations have been held up for some time through the joint objection of those Representatives and Mr. LaFollette. In the future, the nominations in the Beck and Voight districts, subject to the approval of Mr. Lenroot, probably will travel more expeditiously throughout the usual channels.

Representative A. P. Nelson, of Grantsburg, is in line for the chairmanship of the House committee on accounts as a result of the defeat in the Illinois primaries of Representative Ireland, of that State. Mr. Ireland has been chairman of the committee for some time.

Mr. Nelson will be ranking member of the committee in the event he returns to Congress in the next session, and in the absence of Mr. Ireland will be entitled to the chairmanship. The committee has jurisdiction over the expenditures out of the contingent fund of the House.

Unique methods for settling local disputes over postmasterships in his district have been adopted by Representative James A. Frear, of Hudson. In many of the smaller towns, the contest over the appointment of new postmasters has become a lively local issue. Instead of exercising his power to designate the postmaster, Mr. Frear has placed the choice in the hands of the community. Where the contestants have agreed, the appointment has been determined by a local election. This practice was employed in Arcadia and proved very successful.

BAKHMETEFF MUST BE GIVEN IMMUNITY RULING OF HUGHES

Recognized by U. S. as Last Accredited Ambassador from Russia

WASHINGTON.—Boris Bakhmeteff, the last accredited ambassador from Russia to the United States, is recognized as the representative of Russia in the United States and as such enjoys the diplomatic immunity which attaches to all envoys of foreign governments accredited to the U. S., Secretary Hughes declared in a letter transmitted today to the senate.

The state department secretary's letter was addressed to Vice President Coolidge and after being read in the senate was referred to the senate labor committee which subpoenaed the ambassador to appear at its Semenoff hearings. The letter declared that Mr. Bakhmeteff was "officially received as Russian ambassador by the president July 15, 1917," and "since that time this government has recognized him in that capacity and has recognized no other ambassador."

TRAINMEN'S BALL IS BIG SUCCESS MONDAY EVENING

Numerous Delegations Here for Thirty-third Annual Event of Local Lodge

The biggest event of the year for the local lodge of Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, its thirty-third annual grand ball, at which delegations from Minneapolis, St. Paul, Milwaukee and other points throughout Minnesota and Illinois were present, passed into history Monday night as one of the most successful events of its kind ever attempted by the local organizations.

The ball was artistically decorated lattice work decked with artificial flowers enclosing the orchestra at one end, and a similar structure forming an archway at the entrance while switch flags and lanterns, in harmony with the work of the craft, lined either side. Carnations were presented to all of the guests.

The music of Holcombs complete orchestra was the delight of the hundreds who attended. It was the general opinion of committees and guests that the event surpassed any held by the organization.

GERMAN DELEGATES ARE BARRED

Hits "Secret Agreements"

Hence, the terms "dishonorable" and "disloyal" employed by the British spokesman in referring to Germany's action, and the words of warning uttered significantly by the French that, if the conference were employed to construct secret combinations one against another, then Genoa, instead of proving a boon, would develop as an obstacle to reestablishment of an era of confidence and peace. Louis Barthou, head of the French delegation, last night sent a long telegram to Premier Poincare outlining the situation and presenting his personal views.

Despite their feeling that Germany acted behind the back of the conferees, the British delegates apparently do not foresee any danger of the conference collapsing, even though, as the authorized spokesman put it, Germany has broken loose from it. It was stated that after a full discussion of the treaty at Mr. Lloyd George's villa, the delegation "decided that it was exceedingly difficult to imagine any excuse for the action of the Germans."

Barthou Awaits Instructions

Some of the younger members of the French delegation thought both Germany and Russian should be excluded, but France's attitude will not be determined until M. Barthou receives instructions from his premier.

Nothing better than this treaty could have been devised to support the French attitude toward Russia and Germany in the opinion of the Italian delegation, the spokesman for which declared "a great political mistake." The Germans expressed surprise that the allies should resent what they called a perfectly logical outcome of negotiations inaugurated in Berlin.

M. Chitcherin said no especial significance should be attached to completing the treaty at the Genoa conference rather than elsewhere, as it was contemplated long ago.

London Papers Score Action

LONDON. — By The Associated Press.—It would not be easy to imagine any possible happening at Genoa which could excite greater astonishment or more misgivings than the announcement of the Russo-German treaty produced in the majority of this morning London newspapers.

The Times says "It is an open defiance and a studied insult to the entente powers. The German pretense that the choice of time and place for the signature was without significance is pure impertinence.—Russia for the bolshevists and the bolshevists for us, has been the basis of the German policy ever since the German government sent Lenine across the frontier with the deliberate intention that he should poison the whole social organism of Russia."

"Germany hoped then, and has been hoping ever since, that when the poison had done its work she would prey on the corpse.

Seeks Control of Russia

"With the resources and man power of Russia under her control, she would be able at her pleasure to pronounce the treaty of Versailles a scrap of paper, and visit western Europe again with the terrors inseparable from her resurrection as a militarist state.

"It is earnestly to be hoped that the entente powers, especially England and France, will teach the Germans and bolshevists alike that the allies are not to be defied and flouted with impunity."

The Daily Telegraph thinks it is the obvious intention of the Russians to force the powers to grant them recognition on the same full scale as is accorded them by Germany.

"Diplomatic Victory"

Says the Morning Post: "Germany and bolshevist Russia have won a brilliant diplomatic victory."

The one real menace to the peace of Europe is the combination of Russia and Germany. Once started on a policy of economic co-operation, there is no saying to what political and indeed military agreement the two countries might ultimately reach.

French Cabinet Meets

PARIS.—By the Associated Press.—Premier Poincare assembled his cabinet Tuesday to consider the attitude to be taken by France in case Russia and Germay propose to maintain a separate arrangement regarding the restoration of Russia. It was decided to withhold announcement of the policy tentatively decided upon until receipt from Genoa of the action taken at the meeting there today of the principal delegates called to consider the treaty signed by the German and Russian delegates.

A number of the cabinet members regard the pact signed at Rapallo as a violation of the treaty of Versailles.

BOY SCOUT BIRD HOUSES ON DISPLAY AT BARRON'S TODAY

Winning Bird Houses May be Seen in Window at Fifth and Main

The winning bird houses in the recent bird house contest conducted by the Boy Scouts, are on display at Barron's, corner of Fifth and Main.

The city was divided into three districts, the North Side, High School, Normal and Vocational Schools, and all other schools of the South Side comprised the third district. Five prizes were awarded in each district. Those winning first prizes were Scout Otto Baumann, Troop No. 12, Scout Richard Felt, Troop No. 11, and Scout Chester Christiauson, Troop No. 20. The first prize was a Boy Scout uniform. Those winning second prizes were Scouts Webster Soles, Troop No. 1, Henry Iverson, Troop No. 16, and Donald Murphy. The second prize was a year's subscription to Boys' Life. The winners of the third prizes were Scouts James Solberg, Troop No. 1, Deland Palmer, Troop No. 18, and Frederick Reiman, Troop No. 19. This prize was a Scout knife. The fourth prizes were awarded to Scouts Leif Mahium, No. 1, Richard Wheaton, Troop No. 3, and John Sink, Troop No. 4. The prize in this instance was a Scout Canteen. The fifth prizes, Scout Whistles, were awarded to Scouts Robert Curry, Troop No. 10, Ferdinand Martin, Troop No. 7, and Francis Felt, Troop No. 11.

It is one of the Scout requirements, number ten of the first-class tests, that a boy must describe in writing six species of birds and make a bird home and feeding tray of any design. This past contest has brought to the front many original ideas and also brought from obscurity boys with dormant talent.

HOSPITALS WHICH GIVE AWAY BABIES MUST HAVE LICENSE

MADISON, Wis.—All Wisconsin hospitals giving away babies for adoption even with formal consent of the mother, must first be licensed by the state board of control.

This opinion was expressed Tuesday by R. M. Hoyt, deputy attorney general, to the state board of control, after his attention had been called to a Milwaukee hospital which had been acting as a home finding agency for babies of unmarried mothers, in that city.

"If any hospital is doing the things which the statutes permit only licensed home-finding agencies to do, then its acts are unlawful," the attorney general said. "The statute regulating adoption of children was passed in the interests of child welfare and should be so construed as to effectuate the legislative purpose."

REVIVAL SERVICES IN SALZER CHURCH AROUSE INTEREST

Thirty Adults Received into the Church at the Easter Sunday Services

The revival services being conducted in the Salzer Memorial church found their climax in a blaze of glory on Easter Sunday. Never has there been greater enthusiasm or better results than in the meetings this year. The membership rendered very efficient and faithful service. Never have been the responses more numerous and generous. The plan of action was accepted with alacrity and executed with "the spirit to win." The general public responded in a most gratifying manner.

The converts and the Christian people who made a new consecration number into the hundreds. Each night the church altar was filled with seekers or people who renewed their vows to God and the church.

On Easter morning at 7:30 the young people of the city had a rousing union prayer and testimony meeting in the church auditorium. At the proper hour 219 people met in the Sunday School room where the pastor conducted a decision service for boys and girls.

After the celebration of the Lord's Supper the church doors were opened for new members. Thirty adults were received into the fellowship of the church. In the evening the Sunday School rendered a very interesting Easter program. The little "tots" gave a splendid account of themselves. Upon invitation of the pastor twenty boys and girls of the Sunday School joined the church.

On Palm Sunday there were sixteen young people received into the fellowship of the church, and four young married persons came in on an earlier date. Seventy people in all have been added to the church roll recently. To conserve these splendid results and to foster the spirit of true evangelism these revival services will be continued indefinitely.

Wednesday evening there will be preaching service in the main auditorium of the church and a song service conducted by the choir. The evangelistic method will be used in our Sunday evening meetings. The general public is cordially invited to these services.

BAD YEAR FOR THE MOVIES--FIFTH OF HOUSES CLOSED UP

Postmasters Report that Theaters are Converted to Other Lines—One a Morgue

LITTLE NEW BUILDING TO REPLACE THE LOSS

Smaller Houses Being Crowded Out by Big Feature Theaters

NEW YORK—It's been a tough year for motion picture exhibitors, according to "Variety," well known theatrical publication, in a story in its last issue which heralds the startling information that one-fifth of the movie theaters in the country have gone out of business in the last twelve months. Reviewing the situation "Variety" says:

"Carefully compiled statistics just assembled indicate that picture theater activity, particularly in towns with a population between 2,000 and 25,000, is undergoing a distinct setback.

"The Gus Hill Annual Guide, reconstructed each summer for re-issue, carries a list of approximately 10,000 picture theaters in the United States. This month the Hill organization sent the stereotyped questionnaire to each manager and theater listed in last year's guide and out of the 10,000 listed upward of 2,100 were returned undelivered. Realizing this meant the elimination of more than 20 per cent of the total, Hill followed the query up with a letter addressed to the postmaster of each town where letters were undelivered.

"The return brought official answers from all but a few of the 2,100 odd locations, with the comment that practically all the theaters had been converted into various other lines of business, the return answers adding that the locations were now butcher shops, garages, warehouses, grocery stores and every other conceivable type of commercial enterprise, many being demolished with new buildings erected in their stead. One answer carried the information the picture house was now the town morgue.

"To offset this deterioration nothing in the way of new buildings has been recorded of any consequence. Those who have made a study of the rumcser expires the opinion that wartime prosperity with ammunition plants and mills, factories and industrial concerns of all types, fattening on government contracts, brought in a surplus of small theaters, but with conditions returning to normalcy, the fade follow with the inferior program was slowly but surely crowded out by the better grade theater with better grade programs and now where there were once four or five theaters there is but one surviving and this providing a program change twice or thrice weekly.

"Hill's query also brought forth the fact that the majority of houses of the small type changed ownership three or four times yearly, suggesting that speculators were on the job during the prosperous times."

SANTE FE, N. M. — Benjamin F. Pankey was touring the southwest via freight. He got off the train and found himself penniless in a strange region.

PANKEY

He went to work and made enough to buy three steers. Then he went into the cattle business.

That was more than 25 years ago. Today Pankey's fortune is estimated at from $10,000,000 to $14,000,000. And he made it all from the three-steer start.

Pankey is said to be the biggest individual landowner in New Mexico. He was a state senator three years and served one term as New Mexico's lieutenant-governor.

CHANGES IN WHEAT GRADES ANNOUNCED BY FARM SECRETARY

Inspection Rules for Certification of Wheat also Revised

WASHINGTON.—Various changes in wheat grades were announced Tuesday by Secretary Wallace, after an exhaustive study into the grain situation by agricultural department specialists.

Certain changes also will be made in the inspection rules for the certification of hard, red spring and durum wheat, when received at Minneapolis and Duluth and other markets. These changes will require inspectors to state in addition to the grade of the wheat, adequate information as to the kind and quality of foreign material other than dockage and the amount of moisture when effective as grading factors and as to what would be the grade of the wheat otherwise than on account of such grading factors. Under this method the secretary said the virtues of the wheat which had not properly been recognized at country points would be pointed out as far as possible under commercial inspection conditions.

Changes in the standards for white wheats will be made effective July 17, the classes common white and white club being combined into one class designated white wheat, this new class to be subdivided into three sub-classes, hard white, soft white, and western white—making the same application of the hard white and soft white substitute classes as at present and designating as western wheat all white wheats or mixtures of white wheats containing more than ten per cent clubs or sonora. Soft red winter wheat known by the substitute class designation red Walla, will be designated by the term "Western Red" and the standards will be amended effective July 17.

Your Children NEED MUSIC

THAT baby whose first smile was directly in your eyes—that toddler who you trotted on your knee to the tune of a nursery rhyme—he needs music.

You want your child to grow up strong, happy and noble in character. Do you realize what an important part music holds in the growing child's life?

There is Health-Building Happiness in Music

The National Child Welfare Association says that the musical instinct is as deeply rooted as the speech instinct and that to deprive a child of music is to rob him of his brithright.

Specialists are now advocating the giving of rhythmodic exercises to the baby, beginning when he is about a year old, and continuing through childhood. They say that these rhythmodic exercises, with musical accompaniment not only develop the child's muscle and improve his health, but benefit and also soothe his nerves and in some subtle fashion put him into harmony with the rhytmodic orderliness of the world about him.

You Can Now Play Music

You do not have to deprive your children of music because your fingers have never been trained to strike the notes on the printed page. The new Playerpiano gives you the ability to play with all the delicate expression and technique that comes from many years of practice. Won't you come in some day this week, and see this week, and see this wonderful instrument? We know that its presence in your home will bring more happiness to your household and especially to your children.

Careless Shampooing Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy. It's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

PLEA FOR HARMONY IN BADGER G. O. P. MADE BY JOHNSON

Won't Announce Candidacy so as to Leave Committee of 44 Free to Pick Candidates

PLEDGES HIMSELF TO ABIDE BY DECISION OF JUNE MEETING

Convention Offers Opportunity to Get Away from Factionalism

MADISON, Wis.—Belief that the Committee of Forty-Four should not be hampered by individual candidacies in its selection of a ticket to oppose the LaFollette Progressive Republicans at the September general election primaries, was expressed by Henry Johnson, state treasurer, today.

Mr. Johnson, who has served five consecutive terms as state treasurer and in the last election received the largest number of votes ever cast for a state official, said that he did not intend to announce himself as a candidate for any office. This reply he is giving to numerous requests that he allow his name to be submitted as a receptive candidate for governor to the convention of the Committee of Forty-Four at its June meeting.

"It seems to me," Mr. Johnson said, "that the convention representing the Republican party in Wisconsin, should be free to select whoever they believe the best candidate for each office. I am willing to have the whole state wiped clean with all of us now in office left off the new ticket, if that is the best way to gain harmony.

Will Abide by Decision

"There should be a constructive attempt made at this time to bring unity and harmony into the ranks of the Republican party, and the June meeting offers an opportunity to accomplish this end. Whatever is determined at that time in regard to candidacies I shall abide by.

"The only way our government can progress is through harmony between the departments. When the various officers differ politically and are candidates for some position, they allow their political differences to influence their action and the state government suffers.

"The Committee of Forty-Four offers the opportunity to get away from factionalism, and to bring harmony between the various state officers by electing men who represent the Republican party in Wisconsin. Nothing should be done to hamper them in accomplishing their work."

Both Factions Busy

Both the La Follette Progressive Republicans and the Committee of Forty-Four are busy over the entire state, organizing their forces for the coming primaries.

The setting of May 10 as the day for county meetings of the Committee to select delegates for the Milwaukee convention June 1, has given impetus to the organization work necessary before these meetings are held.

Allotments of the number of delegates to be selected by each county on the basis of population, are now being made by the Milwaukee office of the Committee of Forty-Four. It is expected by representatives of the organization that approximately 2,000 delegates will be in attendance from all sections of the state.

Two Out for Governor

Already Attorney General William J. Morgan has announced that he would submit his name to the convention as a candidate for governor subject to its approval. Former Lieutenant Governor Edward Dithmar, likewise, has indicated that he would be a receptive candidate for the position as chief executive.

While Henry Johnson, state treasurer, will authorize no statement concerning whether or not he would accept the candidacy for governor were it tendered him, it is believed that he would be willing to do the bidding of the convention. The name of Roy Wilcox, Eau Claire, twice candidate for governor is being mentioned with increased frequency here as one who might again be considered for the race.

Mark Catlin, Appleton, has announced his candidacy for attorney general, and is the only one formally in the field. John Baker, assistant attorney general, also being mentioned. There have been no further recent changes, David Summerville of Ladysmith still appearing as the candidate for secretary of state and Riley S. Young, Darien, as a candidate for lieutenant governor.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE FOR NEW TOBACCO POOL IS PLANNED

Efforts to be Made to Bring Into Pool 75 Percent of Total Wisconsin Acreage

MADISON, Wis.—The executive committee and district chairmen of the Northern Wisconsin Tobacco pool, recently incorporated co-operative marketing enterprise, met here Tuesday with the state department of markets to complete organization plans. Effort will be made to bring into membership of the pool farmers growing 75 per cent of the total Wisconsin tobacco acreage, before June 1.

Extensive preparation is to be made for a membership drive among all of the tobacco growers of the state. The executive committee will prepare to set the pool under way, organized to handle the 1922 crop expected to total 60,000,000 pounds, providing that three-fourths of the acreage is contracted for the first of June.

L. G. Foster, deputy commissioner of markets, has just returned from Kentucky where he made an investigation of the pool of the growers in the burley district of that state. He says that he found this marketing organization with a membership of 35,000 farmers handling their large crop co-operatively, and at a great financial benefit to themselves.

Organizers who last year set the Kentucky pool under way, will help in the development of the Wisconsin co-operative marketing organization.

Under the proposed Wisconsin organization, the definite plans for which will be developed today, all tobacco growers are eligible for membership, and would sign contracts to dispose of their crop through the pool for five years.

All marketing would be done by a central sales force, who would have practically the entire state supply of tobacco at its disposal. Efficiency in marketing is looked for, Mr. Foster said.

HUSTLER GETS EVERY BREAK IN BASEBALL

(By BILLY EVANS)

In baseball the breaks go to the hustler. The hustler makes his own breaks.

A hustler runs out every batted ball. No matter how remote the chance of beating the play, he puts everything he has into a dash to first base.

The result is that he hurries the infield, causes the fielder to make the play fast and ultra speed and accuracy do not exactly go hand-in-hand.

The hustler may be thrown out 50 times, but he will find that his tactics bear fruit sooner or later. There will be a wild throw as a result of the infielder hurrying sometime and that sometime may win a ball game.

Jimmy Austin of the St. Louis browns is the best example that could be offered as a boost for hustling.

At 40 years of age Jimmy Austin is still a big leaguer. For 10 years bush league recruits have been trying to crowd him out of the majors, but in vain.

Hustle is Jimmy Austin's middle name. He never quits. He keeps on trying regardless of the score. Whether on the field or bench he keeps up a constant flow of encouraging chatter.

There have been greater ball players than Jimmy Austin, but no player stands out as a better example of what can be accomplished by effort and hustle.

The hustler continually makes the infielders throw when off balance. He upsets them, probably not on that particular play, but he unbalances them for the succeeding play.

In fielding there is the fellow for the hustling base runner and he is the player who gets the ball away as fast as he possibly can.

No matter how fast or slow the runner he always throws quickly. The virtue of this system is that when a throw is bad the first baseman has chance to recover the ball and still get the man.

Only one infielder since the days of Bobby Wallace could loaf on throws and always get away with it. The exception was Dohie Bush. His judgment of the speed of base runners was uncanny.

Bush always got the runner by a step, whether he happened to be the fastest or the slowest man in the league. He rarely ever made a bad throw and he rarely ever failed to get his man. But it was always by the same distance.

Everett Scott, one of the great shortstops of the day, always gets the ball away quickly. He has tutored himself to hurry to the limit on every play, no matter how fast or slow the runner happens to be. Scott gets the ball to first base as quickly as he possibly can. This is one of the secrets of Scott's success.

By making plays as Scott makes them base runners are discouraged. They will not run their best at times and often Scott gets a runner for no other reason than the player loafed a trifle is going to first, believing he had no chance to beat Scott on the play.

The speedy fielder puts the baserunner at a disadvantage just as the fast and aggressive runner puts the fielder off balance.

CARDINALS HALTED BY CUBS MONDAY

Two Big Innings Put Skids Under Leaders; Statz's Throw Features

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Chicago handed St. Louis its first defeat of the season in the National league here on Monday, winning the second game of the series by 7 to 6. A swat rally in the second in which Doak was driven off the hill and another assault against Barfoot in the seventh, won for the Cubs. Statz's perfect throw doubling Fournier at the plate in the ninth following his catch of Stock's liner saved the game for the visitors. Heathcote drove in four runs for the Cardinals. Score:

Chicago ---------040 000 300—7
St. Louis ---------001 020 001—6

Batteries: Martin, Kenn and O'Farrel. Doak, Barfoot and Clemens.

Pirates 1; Reds 0

CINCINNATI.—Morrison's great pitching on Monday held Cincinnati to four hits and Pittsburg won, 1 to 0. The only run of the game was scored in the fifth inning, when Rowher singled, stole second and scored on a hit by Grimm. The score:

Pittsbug ---------000 010 000—1
Cincinnati ---------000 000 000—0

Batteries: Morrison and Gooch, Luque and Wingo.

SALT LAKE CITY.—Spug Meyers, Pocatello, knocked out Midget Smith, Midvale, Utah, in the fourth round of a scheduled six round bout.

Trout Anglers Go Forth May 1 This Season

MADISON, Wis.—The first chance of Wisconsin anglers to try their skill against the trout in streams of the state will be given May 1, when the season for this game fish opens.

One month later the season for other game fish in Wisconsin waters opens. At that time muskellunge, pike, pickerel and catfish may be caught under regulations established by the legislature.

No muskellunge under 10 pounds or 34 inches in length may legally be taken from any of the Wisconsin lakes during this season and not more than two of this class of fish as a result of a law enacted by the 1921 session of the legislature.

KOLBO SHOES FALL TO WILE BROTHERS ON EASTER SUNDAY

On Easter Sunday the Wile Bros. copped their first game of the year and the victims were the Kolbo Shoes 19 to 4. Anderson on the mound for the Wile Bros., had 17 strik outs to his credit while the total for Kolbo pitchers was 8. Koblitz the Wile Bros. first sacker connected for 2 circuit drives in the 6th and 8th innings bringing in two men ahead of him on the first homer.

Next Sunday, Wile Bros. play a hard game when they clash with the Reimans.

HAMMES SHOES TO GO UNDER NAME OF THE "DAHL FORDS"

The Hammes Shoes baseball team of last year will play for Harry Dahl this year and will go under the name of Dahl's Fords.

This team is composed of practically the same players as played with the Hammes Shoes team and hereby challenges any nine in the city to a game or series of games to be played in the near future.

Arrangements for games can be made by calling Eugene Hammes, 906 Adams street.

TEN PITCHERS IN AS GRIFFS WIN, 11-9

Macks and Senators Each Use Five Hurlers in Weirdest Game of Year

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Washington defeated Philadelphia on Monday, 11 to 9, in one of the weirdest games ever seen here, the visitors used fourteen players and the local sixteen, ten of the total of thirty players being pitchers, five for each club. Of the entire pitching array, Phillips alone proved effective for more than one inning. The winning runs, made in the seventh, were charged against Yarrison, who yielded a single to Lamotte and walked both Peckinpaugh and Gharrity to fill the bases, with none out. Rommel then succeeded Yarrison and four runs developed from Goslin's sacrifice fly, a triple by Judge and a double by Harris. Score:

Philadelphia ----401 012 100— 9
Washington -----030 031 40x—11

Batteries: Moore, Sullivan, Yarrison, Rommel and Perkins. Mogridge, Brillbart, Woodward, Zachary, Phillips and Gharrity.

Congressmen are sending out free seeds and hoping that they will raise votes.

PROMISING OUTLOOK FOR NELSON BASEBALL CLUB FIRST WORKOUT SUNDAY

Fifteen players answered the call of the Nelson baseball club for the initial workout on Sunday afternoon at Copeland park and with the favorable showing made in every department of the game, officials reported the situation encouraging for a big year.

Schultz, veteran hurler who will be with the club this season, was at his home at Wautoma but will take part in the first practice game at the park next Sunday.

Stoneman, normal student, who established himself as a catcher of the first order with the Mount Horeb league aggregation last season, has been signed by the Nelsons. He was a member of the championship basketball quintet at the La Crosse Normal this year. Stoneman showup in excellent form Sunday and it is no doubting that his services will add greatly to the strength of the team.

Shields, another Normal student and member of the University of Wisconsin Freshman team last year, reported for practice Sunday and gave promising indications of a capable second sacker. Smith and Johnson alternated at first Sunday. Larry Schaefer was seen in his familiar position at short, continuing the snappy play which characterized his work in the city series and throughout the season last year. Bromley, identified with the Genoa aggregation last year, ably commanded the respect of everything that came in the vicinity of third. He is a hitter from the word go. Freng, Beranck and Fuchsel were also out.

Officials were satisfied in every respect with the showing Sunday. They were confident that the team would be in good condition for the opening game with the Peerless Chains three weeks hence, May 7.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Stanislaus Zbyszko, heavyweight wrestler, defeated Charles Reiftrop, Little Rock, in one fall.

Join Our Battery Life Extension Institute for $19.90

That's our trade-in price for a 6-volt Prest-O-Lite Battery for popular makes of light cars. We have types for heavier cars priced correspondingly low.

When you get a Prest-O-Lite Battery, you have joined our Life Extension Institute for Batteries. You have started right with a Prest-O-Lite, and Prest-O-Lite Service will prolong the life of your battery.

Prest-O-Lite Batteries live longer, and die slower than any other make. It's their backbone of famous Prest-O-Plates that makes them live to a ripe old age. The plates that do not forgo porosity, to obtain hardness. Plates with ready power in winter, combined with great, non-buckling, heat-resisting strength in summer.

That's why 87 leading manufacturers specify Prest-O-Lite Batteries as original equipment, and—"the list is growing."

How is your battery pulse? If it is low and weak, let our experts diagnose its trouble, no matter what make of battery. Our friendly advice and attention will put it in shape if it can be done, and we never tell you that you need a new battery until you do.

The Devoe Interior Decorating Expert Will Show You How to Bring Out the Hidden Beauties of Your Home

WOULDN'T you like to have expert advice and color suggestions on how to make your old scarred furniture, floors, woodwork and bric-a-brac new-looking and artistic again?

Wouldn't you like to know how to transform rooms that are now lacking in distinction into gems of interior decoration?

That's just what the Devoe Interior Decorator will be here for.

She will show you how to brighten up the gloom spots in your home. She will show you how, with a little Mirrolac and Velour, brushes, and a few hours of time, you can add more beauty to your home than if you spent several hundred dollars for new furniture and decorations.

Mirrolac and Velour are wonder products. Mirrolac restores scarred surfaces to their original beauty as if by a "magic touch." It gives new expensive wood finish that imitates perfectly the appearance of more expensive woods, such as Oak, Mahogany and Walnut.

Velour is the ideal Flat Wall Finish which perfectly illustrates a principle that every great artist insists upon; namely, that there is no necessary conflict between beauty and utility; but that they are rightly considered one and the same thing.

The Devoe Expert will be at the service of our customers on the dates noted above. There will be absolutely no charge for her advice. Come in and let her help you with your home decorating problems.

"FOOLISH WIVES"—RIVOLI

"Foolish Wives," the sensational Von Stroheim production, which has attracted so much attention in its first two days at the Rivoli is a gigantic production made by the master genius of Von Stroheim, after nearly two years of labor, and after Carl Laemmle had expended over a million dollars on the picture.

Although the scenes are laid at Monte Carlo, the unusual and novel feat was attempted of duplicating that famous Mediterranean resort on the shores of Southern California. Great buildings were erected, the gambling palace of Monte Carlo was duplicated in its entirety, the public square and park in front of the Hotel de Paris was actually reconstructed, and the magnificent Hotel de Paris itself, six stories high, was built all over again of plaster and stucco to duplicate the wonderful marble columns of the original. No such colossal enterprise as reproducing the entire city of Monte Carlo at California, has ever been known in the motion picture industry.

"Foolish Wives" adds to the laurels of Von Stroheim, who wrote the story, directed the picture, and acted the leading role of a Russian count, who tries to fascinate a lot of foolish wives. Others in the cast are: Miss du Pont, Mae Smith, Maude George, Dale Fuller, Rudolph Christians, and a host of others. Nearly 15,000 people were employed in the ensembles showing the crowds in the gay pleasure resort in the South of France.

"MORAN OF THE LADY LETTY" LA CROSSE

Few stronger sea stories ever have been screened than "Moran of the Lady Letty," a Paramount picturization of Frank Norris' famous novel, which was shown to delighted audiences at the La Crosse Theater Sunday and Monday. Dorothy Dalton is the featured player in this excellent production, while the leading man is Rudolph Valentino.

The leading characters of this powerful picture are strikingly portrayed by these clever artists. Moran is a girl of the sea, and in physical strength, courage and the ability to fight is decidedly masculine. But, when she is conquered in a desperate fight by Ramon, he becomes her idol. Other characters are splendidly interpreted by Walter Long, who plays one of the meanest villains of his screen career as villain, Charles Brindley, Emil Jorgensen, Maude Wayne, Cecil Holland and George Kuwa.

"FOOTFALLS"—MAJESTIC

"Footfalls," which opened an engagement yesterday at the Majestic Theater, is a unique achievement in films. It possesses a brand new idea—striking, amazing. Also, it performs the seemingly impossible exploit of conveying by motion pictures the impression of sound and hearing.

"Footfalls" is based upon the story of the same title by Wilbur Daniel Steele, which was awarded the O. Henry Committee short story prize for 1920. It deals with a blind cobbler whose acute sense of hearing enables him to recognize the footfall of every resident of the little New England fishing village where he lives and works. Furthermore, the footfalls of his son and other intimates reveal to him changes of mood—distress, anger, joy. In the later scenes the blind cobbler listens constantly, eagerly, for the footfalls of a murderer returning to the scenes of his crime, knowing they will echo.

It is a most thrilling drama, and one which never can be forgotten. It scored a big hit yesterday.

The production was directed by Charles J. Brabin. The cast includes Tyrone Power, Estelle Taylor, Tom Douglas and Gladden James.

CASINO TODAY

"Live and Let Live," William Christy Cabanne's most recent Robertson-Cole production to be shown at the Casino Theatre beginning today is of symphonic beauty with its drama sincere and portentous, increasing in volume like a swell of music.

Told in a straightforward manner, filled with truthful inbidents of everyday life, it carries a remarkable appeal. There is also a subtle blend of humor and sprinkling of tears through laughter.

AT THE RIVIERA

Bert Lytell, the Metro star, will be seen in a new picture at the Riviera theater Riviera Wednesday until Saturday. The new picture is "The Right That Failed," the romance of the prize ring with which a young Harvard man, J. P. Marquand, landed in the Saturday Evening Post on his first venture in story writing.

The production was made under the direction of Bayard Veiller, author of "Within the Law" and "The Thirteenth Chair," who, since he started his career as a motion picture director, has turned out "The Last Card," starring May Allison; "There Are No Villains," with Viola Dana, and "Ladyfingers," the crook photoplay in which Mr. Lytell was last seen.

STRAND WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY

When Mae Murray in "Fascination," presented by Robert Z. Leonard, comes to the Strand Theater on Wednesday the popular Metro star will be supported by a company of players, several of whom have themselves starred on Broadway. It is without doubt one of the strongest casts that has ever been assembled in motion pictures.

Miss Murray herself plays a girl who revolts against the rigidity of her home life, runs off to a bull fight becomes fascinated by a handsome toreador and is involved in a series of stirring adventures.

Business Brothers

President Neilson of Smith College was making a rather tedious journey and was glad when the man who had the seat in front of his turned around and began a conversation. The man proved to be a traveling salesman and took it for granted that Dr. Neilson was another. "What's your line?" he asked. "Mine's skirts." "Well, so is mine," said the president of Smith.—New York Evening Post.

Removing the Pinfeathers

For Thin Waists and Sleeveless Gowns

(Toilet Tips)

A safe, certain method for ridding the skin of ugly, hairy growths is as follows: Mix a paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface about 2 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hair are gone. This is entirely harmless and seldom requires repeating, but to avoid disappointment it is advisable to see that you get genuine delatone. Mix fresh as wanted.

STOCKS IN REACTION

Volume of Business Falls Below Record of Monday; Rails and Oils Down

NEW YORK—Call money opened at 3½ per cent on the stock exchange Tuesday but selling on a large scale continued throughout the morning. The turn-over for the first two hours was estimated at 750,000 shares, this falling considerably under Monday's record. The more substantial reasons included Canadian Pacific and Standard of New Jersey which lost 2¼ and 4 points respectively.

Foreign oils, especially Mexican Petroleum and General Asphalt also were liquidated. Other transcontinentals eased with Canadian Pacific and coalers last ground with Reading. Steels, equipments, motors and tobaccos made one to two point recessions. Wilson, Montgomery-Ward and People's Gas were among the few stocks to run counter to the general reaction.

In striking contrast to initial dealings of the past few weeks, opening prices in the stock market were decidedly reactionary. Monday's record operations and the unstable movements of certain leaders, especially the oils, evidently prompted a renewal of short selling, although rails showed marked firmness. Sinclair, Studebaker, Baldwin, Bethlehem, Westinghouse, Mexican Petroleum and Atlantic Gulf lost substantial fractions. Standard of California, United States Rubber, Atchison, Illinois Central and Coca Cola, featured the market's stronger side. Reading's one point reaction reflected the latest aspects of the coal strike.

Losses among oils, steels and equipments were extended in the further selling of the final hour and rails forfeited part of their gains. The close was heavy.

WHEAT MOVES UPWARD

Market Takes Upward Swing With Renewal of Crop Damage Reports

CHICAGO, Ill.—Wheat took a new upward swing in price Tuesday during early trading. Notable absence of pressure to sell was apparent and a renewal of crop damage reports from the southwest tended to stimulate buying and lift values. The seeming apathy at Liverpool was practically ignored here except at the opening. Initial quotations which ranged from ⅛c to 1¼c lower, May $1.39½ to $1.40 and July $1.24 to ¾ were followed by a rise all around to well above Monday's close.

General selling ascribed mainly to weakness of the stock market and to European diplomatic complications led to setbacks in the price of wheat Tuesday as the session drew to a close. The finish was heavy one cent to 1⅝c net lower, May $1.39¼ to ½ and July $1.23⅞ to ½.

Corn paralleled the action of wheat. After opening unchanged to ⅝c lower, July 64⅛ to ½c the market scored a moderate general advance.

Subsequently the corn market fell when wheat turned down grade. The close was weak ⅞c to 1⅛c net lower, July 63¼ to ⅜c.

Oats started ⅛c off to ⅛c up, July 40⅝c and then showed gains for all months.

Provisions were inclined to sag.

SAVE STATE TIMBER SUPPLY IS PLEA OF CONSERVATION BOARD

Supply of Future Depends on Saving Forests from Fire and Grazing Damage

MADISON Wis.—Future forest supplies for Wisconsin, which formerly stood foremost among the states of the nation in the production of lumber, now rest primarily on protection from fire and grazing, the conservation commission points out in a bulletin just received.

By holding down destructive fires to the minimum, the millions of acres of rough land of Wisconsin, unfit for cultivation can be made to yield large quantities of both hard and soft woods, the commission says. Natural growth in the course of years will take the place of the timber which has already been cut for the lumber mills and burned in the heavy fires which annually have swept large tracks of timber in the state.

"The year that has just passed has witnessed the final closing down of several of the large sawmills that operated for years in Wisconsin," the bulletin says. "Each successive year will bring similar occurances as the original forest is rapidly removed to satisfy the demands for forest products by Wisconsin and American citizens, a demand which has always been pronounced and discriminating.

"The removal of the forest has made possible the great agricultural development of northern Wisconsin. This is a highly desirable and profitable proceeding, especially if it is conducted on soils of good fertility. It must be borne in mind, however, that wood and timber products are basic raw material on which the entire agricultural and industrial system of the state rests.

"Many of the Wisconsin cities are primarily dependent upon the forests as the source of the raw material which permit their factories to operate. The process of growing this timber will require a long period of time, will be costly, and will be subjected to many uncertainties, as it has been in all countries where a forestry program is now a definite part of the fundamental law.

"The greatest part of the merchantable timber of this state is mature. It is ready for the ax. Mature timber is meant to be cut, and nothing but permanent and continuing progress and industrial success would result were it not for the fact that we have failed to provide for the young tree, and for the protection of areas on which young timber is growing, with the result that the not distant future may find this state hard up for timber supplies or paying exorbitant prices for such material.

"This condition can be remedied by a comprehensive forestry policy now, while the state has from 25 to 30 years of timber supply left. It is safe to say that 75 per cent of the forest replacement is the problem of keeping the woods safe from fire. The task is not an impossible one and rests entirely on the public conception of this menace and on organized effort.

"Forest replacement and the growing of needed timber supplies is doomed without such fire protection constantly over a long period of years. The planting of trees on cut-over lands is not, fundamentally, a sound or practical method of forest replacement. The actual planting in such numbers as is required for the reforestration of considerable areas is only a measure of last resort.

"It is certain that eventually a change in the state tax laws will take place, which will encourage rather than discourage the retaining of young timber.

"It should be borne in mind that mature timber is fundamentally different from young timber and the former being ready for marker should possess a value for taxation purposes, while the latter having no present market value, requires exceptional measures in the way of protection.

"Eliminate the fires caused by the settler, the camper, the hunter, the railroad, the slash fire following the lumberman and you transform the thousands of acres of burned over lands into areas bearing valuable timber."

AUTHORIZE SALE OF BADGER UTILITIES

MADISON, Wis.—The Lake Superior district Power company was authorized to Tuesday by the railroad commission to take over the Ashland Light and Power company, the Ironwood and Bessmer Street Railway and Light company, and the Big Falls Power company.

PLAN TO ERADICATE ROSE BUSHES DRAWS ATTACK OF BADGER

Calls on Plant Pathologists to Find Remedy for Disease Rather Than Destruction

MADISON, Wis.—Plant pathologists who propose the eradication of the rose because it is alleged to carry a disease destructive to potatoes have drawn fire from Secretary Frederic Cranefield of the Wisconsin State Horticultural society. Mr. Cranefield says that the tearing up of the barberry because it carried a disease to wheat known as "wheat rust" was a patriotic duty in war time and that even the going of the currant and gooseberry because it carried white pine rust can be borne with fortitude but the proposed destruction of rose bushes is "the limit."

"Let us serve notice now and here," says Mr. Cranefield in commenting on the Maine pathologist who declares war on the roses," on the whole tribe of plant pathologists, their present and prospective progeny, that horticulturists of this free land will not submit, except through force, to the destruction of the rose. Nor to the destruction of any other so valuable a plant even to save the succulent spud until the pathologists have employed their God given talents and such common sense as they may possess, aided by whatever little knowledge they may have acquired, to find a remedy for the control of these diseases other than the destruction of host plants.

"Is it on record anywhere that this has ever been attempted? Not so that it can be noticed. The wheat rust breeds in the barberry, and other plants, why look for a remedy, it is much easier to dig out the barberry,' the line as easiest resistance, the lazy way. That, apparently, is the line that has been followed by plant pathologists lately."

SELF-DEFENSE WILL BE PLEA OF FARWELL

Confessed Slayer of Housten Abandons Plan to Plead Insanity

MADISON, Wis.—The plea of insanity which Hartwell Farwell, Vienna, Wis., farmer, confessed slayer of Philip Housten, whose body he attempted to burn in a hay stack near Portage early in February, intended to enter in defense of his action, was withdrawn late Monday by his attorney.

Farwell will now go to trial April 24 to answer the charge of first degree murder, with a defense built on a plea of self-defense, to save his own life, and to protect his sister's honor and his family name.

In a statement to the court, accompanying the motion to withdraw the insanity plea, attorneys said that the abnormal physical and mental state of the defendant at the time of his arraignment "was due to the harrowing experiences he has undergone both before and after his arrest," and not to insanity.

ELECT CITY OFFICERS

MADISON, Wis.—Roman Heilman was elected city attorney, E. E. Parker city engineer, and Harry Buser city clerk, by the new common council which met Tuesday. Mayor Kittleson was inaugurated for his second term.

Some staggering constipation facts; Know how Kellogg's Bran can help you!

Ninety out of every one hundred people suffer with constipation! Constipation is the direct cause of breakdowns in old age, lowered vitality and ninety per cent of illness!

Do you realize that nearly every case of constipation is traceable to neglect in answering nature's call? In a few years the sufferer has "latent constipation"—the most dangerous form of all! Toxic poisons penetrate the intestine walls, polluting the blood, which in turn poisons and affects every organ in the body. Nearly every case of diabetes and Bright's disease can be traced to constipation, or intestinal poisoning, as can most rheumatism, headache, brain fag, hardening of arteries and other organic diseases.

Pills and cathartics can never afford you permanent relief. What you need is nature's most wonderful roughage—BRAN.—Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled—and delicious in flavor and edibility! Bran will permanently relieve constipation when taken regularly—at least two tablespoonfuls daily; in severe cases, with every meal! Your doctor will indorse Kellogg's Bran for constipation!

Kellogg's Bran sweeps, cleans and purifies the eliminative tract as nothing else can—and, being a nature food, it creates no habit. Bran's work is a revelation!

Serve Kellogg's Bran to the entire family as a cereal, with other cereals or in countless appetizing ways such as in muffins, pancakes, raisin bread, etc. Recipes on every package.

All grocers sell Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled.

P. S.—Kellogg's Bran, eaten regularly, will clear up a pimply complexion.

Truly Delicious!

Increases the action of the intestines

Doctors are now agreed that proper elimination of waste matter should be brought about by food. One doctor comes right out and states plainly that the indiscriminate use of cathartics is one of the causes of constipation.

Physicians all over the country are recommending Fleischmann's fresh yeast because it is a fresh food, rich in those elements which keep the intestines healthy. In one series of tested cases, normal functions were restored in from 3 days to 5 weeks.

Try it out for yourself. Begin today by adding 2 or 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast to your everyday diet. Keep it up and see how normally and regularly your intestines act. Be sure it's Fleischmann's Yeast—the familar tin-foil package with the yellow label. Place a standing order with your grocer.
